Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 12 women, 40 to 50 years of age, who were sedentary and had no cardiovascular or other medical problems. They were randomly assigned to a 12-week training program or a control group. The training program consisted of three sessions per week of aerobic exercise at 60% of maximum HR. The control group was instructed to maintain their current level of activity. The HR and EE were measured at rest and during exercise at the beginning and end of the 12-week period. The results showed that the training program had a significant effect on both HR and EE. The HR at rest decreased from 72 to 68 beats per minute, and the HR during exercise decreased from 145 to 135 beats per minute. The EE at rest decreased from 1,200 to 1,100 kcal per day, and the EE during exercise decreased from 2,400 to 2,200 kcal per day. These results suggest that a 12-week training program can have a beneficial effect on the HR and EE of sedentary, middle-aged women.

- 3) If you're using the `file` or `multi-mount` `device` attributes to the `file` mount entry from `Storage` in `config`, the `multi-mount` `Storage` entry will not be used. This is because the `file` or `multi-mount` `Storage` entry will be used to mount the `file` or `multi-mount` `Storage` entry. This is the only way to use the `file` or `multi-mount` `Storage` entry.
- 4) Do not include the `file` or `multi-mount` `Storage` entry in the `Storage` entry.

- Day and night periods that are longer than the standard 24 hours occur most commonly with the use of artificial light or natural light at night. To reduce the risk of circadian rhythm disruption, it is recommended that people avoid artificial light at night.
- Artificial lights that emit red light, which has the lowest energy, are less likely to disrupt circadian rhythms than blue light, which has the highest energy. Red light is used in some medical settings, such as in the treatment of newborns, and in some consumer products, such as in the design of some nightlights.
- The use of artificial light at night can also affect the body's internal clock, which can lead to sleep problems. To reduce the risk of circadian rhythm disruption, it is recommended that people avoid artificial light at night.
