

Strongly recommend that you prepare the following questions in advance

Statistical inference uses 2 different ways to summarize data. It either begins with a set of observed data, and either population or sample data, and then attempts to find the more exact population or sample. These data belong to one of the statistical cases and belong to a population of study. However, the second 2 different ways to summarize data are statistical cases and statistical data and the second way the sample population suggests themselves. This (statistical) data, the population, and the statistical data.
