

Profile of a good essay

A general note on academic writing conventions

Academic writing is bounded by strong conventions, some of which are common across academic schools and subjects, whilst others are discipline-specific. Some may be more to do with departmental protocols and therefore need checking in specific settings. Many academic conventions also have a strong cultural component (international students should bear this in mind and check out their former experience against expectations here)

Having said this, even within formal academic writing there is room for individual style and some scope for compromise between academic protocols and personal preferences. In the early stages of your undergraduate studies though, and until you develop confidence in your academic writing, you should err on the side of the former.

A good essay ...

1. Answers the question
2. Develops a strong argument
3. Has a clear structure
4. Employs an appropriate style
5. Shows clarity of thought
6. Demonstrates breadth of reading, and familiarity with a range of relevant debates and/or viewpoints
7. Shows originality of thought
8. Is appropriately and accurately referenced

1. Answers the question

- No matter how interesting or cleverly argued, the content of your essay is only of value insofar as it directly addresses the specific question asked.
- Answering the question is about applying the material you've researched.
- Your argument / evidence must all be relevant to the question – if it is not obvious that it is, it should either be removed or reframed so that its relevance is clear.
- Avoid waffling and going off on tangents
