Teaching Disciplinary Literacy Charles W. Peters, Deanna Birdyshaw, Amy Bacevich, 2016-06-01 This practical guide will help pre and inservice secondary teachers and their instructors and coaches to use videos as a resource to improve teaching. Derived from the authors' research and experience in a teacher preparation program using video records of practice as a core element for reflection and growth, the book focuses on five disciplinary literacy strategies to help teachers identify and develop high leverage teaching practices across a range of subject areas. The text includes sample lessons, protocols for leading discussions based on videos, and methods for making informed decisions about how to select video-related work. Throughout, the authors provide records of student clinical teaching practice, sample assignment guidelines, and transcripts from video discussion groups. Teacher educators can use this comprehensive resource to develop or revise a curriculum to make it more practice-oriented. I recommend this volume to its readers as a terrific example of bringing to bear the current state of knowledge across relevant areas to address persistent issues in the development and assessment of programs designed for secondary teacher preparation. From the Foreword by Karen Wixson William E. Moran, Distinguished Professor in Reading and Literacy, University of North Carolina at Greensboro. Peters, Birdyshaw, and Bacevich have nailed it. Steeped in deep conceptual understandings of teacher learning, the authors detail a powerful, field-tested framework for using video records of practice to implement core literacy practices in secondary subject matter classrooms. The result is a perfect marriage of pedagogical content knowledge in the disciplines and literacy. An excellent resource for both preservice and inservice teacher education. Sheila Valencia, professor, Curriculum and Instruction, University of Washington.

Reflective Writing in Medical Practice Miriam A. Locher, 2017-06-05 This book reports the results of a linguistic analysis of reflective written texts produced during medical education or practice. It explores the topics and communication skills the authors write about: how the narratives develop, how these texts are shaped, what genres influence their composition, how relational work surfaces in them, and how the writers linguistically create their identities as experts or novices. It is clear that both experienced and trainee medics grapple with the place of emotions in their communicative acts and with the idea of what it means to be a doctor. The book makes a valuable contribution to genre analysis, interpersonal pragmatics, and the study of linguistic identity construction and will be essential reading for those involved in teaching doctor-patient communication skills.

Demystifying Critical Reflection Namala Tilakaratna, Eszter Szenes, 2024-01-24 Drawing on Legitimation Code Theory (LCT), this volume reveals the knowledge practices and language of critical reflection in a range of different subjects, making clear how it can be taught and learned. Critical thinking is widely held to be a key attribute required for successfully living, learning, and earning in modern societies. Universities now list critical thinking as a key graduate quality and use critical reflection as a way of teaching students how to become reflective and ethical professionals. Yet what critical reflection actually involves remains vague in research teaching practice and assessment Studies draw on LCT a fast growing framework for revealing the knowledge practices that enable educational success and the individual chapters focus on a diverse range of contexts across the disciplinary map including education science arts sociology and nursing The book further connects research and practice by presenting in depth analyses of critical reflection and providing practical insights into how LCT can be used to design pedagogic interventions The book offers a rich resource for both scholars and teachers who want to demystify critical reflection and prepare university students for the modern workplace The Language of Love and Guilt Ruth Wodak, Muriel Schulz, 1986-01-01 Although mother and daughter are two central female roles they have rarely been investigated The relationship is specific certainly different than the mother son or father daughter relationships And this difference manifests itself in sex specific language behavior Despite eternal features of the mother daughter relationship its quality is affected by individual psychological and by sociocultural variables Thus investigations took place in two big cities with very different structures and traditions Vienna and Los Angeles This is the first cross cultural study which reflects and combines multiple linguistic socio psycholinguistic and text linguistic categories approaches and methods to be able to investigate such an important topic as family relationships and the place of women nowadays in our societies

The Rhetoric of Reason James Crosswhite, 2012-11 Responding to skeptics within higher education and critics without James Crosswhite argues powerfully that the core of a college education should be learning to write a reasoned argument A trained philosopher and director of a university wide composition program Crosswhite challenges his readers teachers of writing and communication philosophers critical theorists and educational administrators to reestablish the traditional role of rhetoric in education To those who have lost faith in the abilities of people to reach reasoned mutual agreements and to others who have attacked the right or wrong model of formal logic this book offers the reminder that the rhetorical tradition has always viewed argumentation as a dialogue a response to changing situations an exchange of persuading listening and understanding Crosswhite's aim is to give new purpose to writing instruction and to students writing to reinvest both with the deep ethical interests of the rhetorical tradition In laying out the elements of argumentation for example he shows that claiming questioning and giving reasons are not simple elements of formal logic but communicative acts with complicated ethical features Students must learn not only how to construct an argument but the purposes responsibilities and consequences of engaging in one Crosswhite supports his aims through a rhetorical reconstruction of reason offering new interpretations of Plato and Aristotle and of the concepts of reflection and dialogue from early modernity through Hegel to Gadamer And in his conclusion he ties these theoretical and historical underpinnings to current problems of higher education the definition of the liberal arts and especially the teaching of written communication
