distributive justice and attempts to discover the ways in which those beliefs influence their behavior The book calls into question many notions of American political ideology and in particular the idea of an American exceptionalism regarding views from the political left and the dominance in the United States of a liberal tradition Political philosophers have amassed a large body of work on justice and fairness from a theoretical perspective but there is comparatively little empirical work on the subject The work that does exist concentrates on the beliefs of the public We know very little concerning the beliefs about justice held by political elites This work offers a window into the beliefs of legislators a group for which such an inquiry is rarely undertaken The book is based on a set of extended in depth interviews with the members of the Connecticut State Senate as well as a year of close observation of the Senate in action The interviews averaged four hours in length and covered a variety of topics related to fairness Through this material Reeher employs a narrative based framework to understand the patterns in the senators interview responses and develops a typology of the senator s narratives These narratives vary in both content and form and as a whole present a surprising range of views Narratives of Justice will be of interest to those concerned with justice political ideologies and political beliefs as well as state and local politics and more generally American politics Its wide research and thorough documentation make it a useful guide to the literature within and beyond political science concerning beliefs ideologies legislative behavior and qualitative research methods Grant Reeher is Assistant Professor Maxwell School of Citizenship and Public Affairs Department of Political Science Syracuse University and currently a Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Scholar in Health Policy Research University of Michigan
