Teachers of English Learners Negotiating Authoritarian Policies Lucinda Pease-Alvarez, Katharine Davies Samway, 2012-02-07 In an effort to reverse the purported crisis in U S public schools the federal government states districts have mandated policies that favor standardized approaches to teaching and assessment. As a consequence, teachers have been relying on teacher-centered instructional approaches that do not take into consideration the needs, experiences, and interests of their students. This is particularly pronounced with English learners (ELs). The widespread implementation of these policies is particularly striking in California, where more than 25% of all public school students are ELs. This volume reports on three studies that explore how teachers of ELs in three school districts negotiated these policies. Drawing on sociocultural and poststructural perspectives on agency and power, the authors examine how contexts in which teachers of ELs lived and worked influenced the messages they constructed about these policies and mediated their decisions about policy implementation. The volume provides important insights into processes affecting the learning and teaching of ELs. Kid by Kid, Skill by Skill Robert Eaker, Janel Keating, 2015-07-20. Written for educators and administrators, this book explores professional learning communities from a teacher's perspective. Focused chapters survey effective and collaborative team actions, instructional practices that enhance teacher efficiency, and the role teacher judgment and classroom context play in determining instructional outcomes. The authors show that shifting teachers' focus from teaching to learning creates a lasting commitment to PLC success. Writing Workouts Grades 6-12 Rebecca G. G. Harper, 2023.
