Rethinking Online Education Bessie Mitsikopoulou, 2015-11-17 Rethinking Online Education analyzes online educational materials on the recent Iraq war aimed to be used by U S educators in elementary and secondary schools It is suggested that far from being ideologically neutral these educational materials weave together resources which provide a coherent view of the Iraq war theme and can thus be seen as constituting a kind of an informal curriculum Mitsikopoulou argues that the teacher resources adhere to different pedagogical discourses and constitute materializations of two broad approaches to education A number of pedagogical issues are also raised in the discussion What is the difference between critical thinking and critical pedagogy How is the genre of lesson plan realized in different teaching philosophies and how do curricular texts change when they are delivered online This important book highlights the need to explore the new forms of textuality which emerge from online curricular materials and to develop an understanding of the processes of text

It has a twofold purpose. First, it facilitates K-12 and university faculty in situating Arboleda's book within the fields of race relations, multicultural education, and related disciplines. Second, it is intended to critique and problematize the book's content so that it can be used to stimulate critical thought, debate, and action oriented toward increasing social justice among its readers, both inside and outside of the classroom. To facilitate use of In the Shadow of Race as a course text, topics for discussion included in this Teacher's Guide include the social construction of race, racial separatism versus diversity, racial/ethnic and cultural identity development, the politics of racial categorization, mixed race peoples' cultural identity vs. identity by heritage, the concept of a cultural home, and changing identities within cultures. The Teacher's Guide is free to college faculty who adopt Arboleda's In the Shadow of Race. Rethinking Our Classrooms Rethinking Schools, Ltd. BIGELOW, 1998 RESOURCES FOR TEACHING ABOUT THE IMPACT OF THE ARRIVAL OF COLUMBUS IN THE AMERICAS Resources in Education, 2000-10 Transforming food and agriculture through a systems approach Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, The purpose of Transforming food and agriculture through a systems approach is to clarify what a systems approach involves in practice across agrifood systems. It explains what a systems approach means in the context of agrifood systems, why it matters, and how to adopt it. It advances the operationalization of a systems approach by outlining the key shifts needed to embed systems thinking into policies, programmes, projects, and interventions, and illustrating how countries, regions, and municipalities are putting these shifts into practice. Teaching Civic Literacy Projects Shira Eve Epstein, 2014-09-01 This practical resource shows teachers how to enact robust forms of civic education in today's schools. Both instructive and thought provoking, it will inspire teachers to craft curricula addressing a wide range of genuine civic problems, such as those related to racial discrimination, environmental damage, and community health. Dividing civic literacy projects into three key phases: problem identification, problem exploration, and action, the author provides concrete examples from upper elementary, middle, and high school classrooms to illustrate and analyze how each phase can unfold. The projects ultimately provide opportunities for youth to participate in civic life while they develop essential literacy skills associated with reading, writing, and speaking. The final chapter outlines a curriculum design process that will result in coherent and meaningful civic literacy projects driven by clear goals It includes practical tools such as a sample unit timeline an assessment chart and student worksheets that can be modified for immediate use
