Caldwell,2018-11-09 This groundbreaking book provides the first systematic comparison of America s modern wars and why they were won or lost John D Caldwell uses the World War II victory as the historical benchmark for evaluating the success and failure of later conflicts Unlike WWII the Korean Vietnam and Iraqi Wars were limited but they required enormous national commitments produced no lasting victories and generated bitter political controversies Caldwell comprehensively examines these four wars through the lens of a strategic architecture to explain how and why their outcomes were so dramatically different He defines a strategic architecture as an interlinked set of continually evolving policies strategies and operations by which combatant states work toward a desired end Policy defines the high level goals a nation seeks to achieve once it initiates a conflict or finds itself drawn into one Policy makers direct a broad course of action and strive to control the initiative When they make decisions they have to respond to unforeseen conditions to guide and determine future decisions Effective leaders are skilled at organizing constituencies they need to succeed and communicating to them convincingly Strategy means employing whatever resources are available to achieve policy goals in situations that are dynamic as conflicts change quickly over time Operations are the actions that occur when politicians soldiers and diplomats execute plans A strategic architecture Caldwell argues is thus not a static blueprint but a dynamic vision of how a state can succeed or fail in a conflict Effective Learning and Teaching in Social Policy and Social Work Hilary Burgess,Imogen Taylor,2004-11-10 Written to meet the needs of teachers lecturers and tutors working at

McKenzie,2024-05-28 As the Commander of U S Central Command General Frank McKenzie oversaw some of the most important and controversial operations in modern U S military history He had direct operational responsibility for the strikes on Qassem Soleimani and two successive leaders of ISIS the many months of deterrence operations against Iran and its proxies and the methodical drawdown in Iraq He directed the noncombatant evacuation operation in Afghanistan and our final withdrawal from that tortured country The Melting Point has three themes The first one is the importance of the primacy of civilian control of the military It has become a widely perceived truth that this control has been eroded over the past few years General McKenzie doesn t believe that to be the case and he speaks with some authority on the matter arguing that the civ mil relationship isn t perfect or frictionless but it doesn t have to be and probably shouldn t be It is however more durable than many believe and is supported and embraced by the military to a degree that some critics do not choose to recognize The second theme is the uniqueness of being a combatant commander Combatant commanders participate in the development of policy although as junior partners They are also responsible for the execution of policy once civilian leaders have formulated their decision a unique position and very different than the role of a service chief or even the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff None of these officers are in the chain of command and they have no ultimate mortal responsibility or authority for execution Only the combatant commander stands astride the boundary of decision making and execution Finally the third theme that McKenzie argues is that leaders matter and the decisions they make have a profound effect on what happens on the battlefield McKenzie provides an honest assessment of his time in command describing decisions that were sound as well as some outcomes he wishes were different He offers a vivid portrait of leadership in action in one of the most volatile regions of the world Chilton General Motors Mechanical Service ,2005
