Vocabulary for Sustainable Consumption and Lifestyles Lewis Akenji, Philip J. Vergragt, Halina Szejnwald Brown, Thomas S.J. Smith, Laura Maria Wallnöfer, 2025-09-29 Vocabulary for Sustainable Consumption and Lifestyles a Language for our Common Future curates a shared vocabulary of concepts that enables a society wide conversation about sustainable consumption and lifestyles the future of consumer society and ways to transcend it Since the United Nations UN Earth Summit in Rio de Janeiro in 1992 the global environmental and social consequences of mass consumption have been well documented yet progress is slow Overconsumption and extractive practices continue to drive ecological overshoot Set against this backdrop each of the 87 essays in this book imparts a meaning to a concept highlights its history and offers different perspectives interpretations and applications for social change The two premises of this book are that we need to transition to a society in which the well being and dignity of people are achieved with a much smaller footprint and that technological solutions are inadequate for the challenge Policies and actions are greatly lagging behind the growing understanding of the system of production consumption because social change is often slow and sustainable consumption does not have a clear political champion The book addresses tensions that also interfere with progress such as science versus politics economic winners versus losers traditions versus an uncertain future and present needs versus future costs This innovative volume is an important resource for students scholars policymakers grassroots activists and agents of change interested in sustainable consumption and sustainable living more broadly

Finance and the World Economy in Weimar Cinema Owen Lyons, 2025-10-01 After the First World War the effects of financial crisis could be felt in all corners of the newly formed Weimar Republic The newly interconnected world economy was barely understood and yet it was increasingly made visible in the films of the time The complexities of this system were reflected on screen to both the everyday spectator as well as a new class of financial workers who looked to popular depictions of speculation and crisis to make sense of their own place on the shifting ground of modern life Finance and the World Economy in Weimar Cinema turns to the many underexamined depictions of finance capital that appear in the films of 1920s Germany The representation of finance capital in these films is essential to our understanding of the culture of the Weimar Republic particularly in the relation between finance and ideas of gender nation and modernity As visual records these films reveal the stock exchange as a key space of modernity and coincide with the abstraction of finance as a vast labour of representation in its own right In so doing they introduce core visual tropes that have become essential to our understanding of finance and capitalism throughout the twentieth century

Early Childhood in the Anglosphere Peter Moss, Linda Mitchell, 2024-05-09 Written by two leading international experts Early Childhood in the Anglosphere offers a unique comparison of early childhood education and care services and parenting leave across seven high income Anglophone countries Peter Moss and Linda Mitchell explore what these systems have in common including the dominance of childcare services widespread privatisation and marketisation and weak parenting leave They highlight the substantial failings of these systems and the causes and consequences of these failings But this book is ultimately about hope about how these failings might be made good through major changes In other words it is about transformation why transformation is both necessary and possible at this particular time what transformation might look like and how it might happen Part of that transformation concerns the need for new policies and structures but even more it is about how the Anglosphere thinks about early childhood The authors call for turning away from conceptualising early childhood services as childcare and marketised businesses selling commodities to parent consumers and for reconceptualising them as education imbued with an ethics of care a public good available as a right to all children and families and complemented by well paid individual entitlements to parenting leave Using examples from the Anglosphere and beyond and in a context of converging crises the book argues that transformation of thinking policies and structures is desirable and doable Research in Education ,1971 Consumer Finance Edward T.
