Salinas Carol Lynn McKibben, 2022-01-25 An ambitious history of a California city that epitomizes the history of race relations in modern America. Although much has been written about the urban-rural divide in America, the city of Salinas, California, like so many other places in the state and nation whose economies are based on agriculture, is at once rural and urban. For generations, Salinas has been associated with migrant farmworkers from different racial and ethnic groups. This broad-ranging history of the Salad Bowl of the World tells a complex story of community building in a multiracial, multiethnic city where diversity has been both a cornerstone of civic identity and, from the perspective of primarily white landowners and pragmatic agricultural industrialists, essential for maintaining the local workforce. Carol Lynn McKibben draws on extensive original research, including oral histories and never-before-seen archives of local business groups, tracing Salinas's ever-changing demographics and the challenges and triumphs of Chinese, Japanese, Filipino, and Mexican immigrants, as well as Depression-era Dust Bowl migrants and white ethnic Europeans. McKibben takes us from Salinas's nineteenth-century beginnings as the economic engine of California's Central Coast up through the disproportionate impact of Covid-19 on communities of color today, especially farmworkers who already live on the margins. Throughout the century-plus history of Salinas, McKibben explores how the political and economic stability of Salinas rested on the ability of nonwhite minorities to achieve a measure of middle-class success and inclusion in the cultural life of the city without overturning a system based in white supremacy. This timely book deepens our understanding of race relations, economic development, and the impact of changing demographics on regional politics in urban California and in the United States as a whole.

Political Continuity and Conflict in East Timor Ruth Nuttall, 2021-06-14 This book examines the history of political continuity and conflict in East Timor between 1974 and 2006 and the origins of an unexpected crisis in 2006, which caused an international military intervention and several more years of UN missions. The author revisits historical materials and brings to light new resources making extensive use of the 2005 Report of the Commission for Reception Truth and Reconciliation and contemporary diplomatic UN and news media reports to provide a precise context and chronology for the events in 2006 The book provides an analysis within which factors such as ethnic and inter communal violence security sector weaknesses and conflict between the army and police the constitution and legal system state building and peace building can be located in the larger context of the 2006 crisis Demonstrating how and why in the space of four weeks in April and May 2006 the newly independent country of Timor Leste plunged from UN success story into catastrophe this book will be of interest to academics working on Southeast Asian Politics Southeast Asian history Development Studies and Nation State and Peace Building and International Relations

Planning on the Edge Penny Gurstein, Tom Hutton, 2019-12-01 Vancouver is heralded around the world as a model for sustainable development. In Planning on the Edge, nationally and internationally renowned planning scholars, activists, and Indigenous leaders assess whether the city's reputation is warranted. While recognizing the many successes of the Vancouverism model, the contributors acknowledge that the forces of globalization and speculative property development have increased social inequality and housing insecurity since the 1980s in the city and the region. To determine the city's prospects for overcoming these problems, they look at city planning from all angles, including planning for the Indigenous population, environmental and disaster planning, housing and migration, and transportation and water management. By looking at policies at the local, provincial, and federal levels and taking reconciliation with Indigenous peoples into account, Planning on the Edge highlights the kinds of policies and practices needed to reorient Vancouver's development trajectory along a more environmentally sound and equitable path.

Globalization and Regime Change Robin Alison Remington, Robert K. Evanson, 2019-10-25 This timely book examines post-communist developments in Russia, central Europe, and the Balkans, emphasizing foreign and security policies and their domestic linkages. Framed around the concepts of globalization and regime change, the rich set of case studies traces the repercussions for politicians and institutions forced to adjust to the disappearance of the East from the Cold War's East-West polarity. The contributors explore how each country has grappled with such questions as how to change from one party to many, how to create viable market economies, and how to restructure security alliances. They conclude by considering the prospects for further regime change from democracies to hybrid systems and the implications for the future of the European Union.
