

Essay: Tips on writing 1000 words Essay

Words are the medium of expressing ourselves. These are the primary means of communication that allow us to express our ideas and convey messages and emotions to the outside world. Almost all of the modern languages in the world utilise words chained together to form sentences, guided by semantic rules more commonly known as grammar. A combination of sentences in a logical succession is termed a paragraph.

So how many paragraphs is 1000 words? By definition, a paragraph is a combination of sequential and relatable sentences which are contextually valid. Writing a perfect paragraph is not quite simple since it needs to be cohesive, readable, and grammatically correct. Each sentence included in the paragraph should follow a perfect chronology according to its preceding or successive sentence. It will better help the readers understand the purpose and the idea behind each paragraph, proving a greater understanding of the content.

When you combine words by changing them, you are using a word-building strategy called derivation. Derivation is a word-building strategy that uses affixes to create new words. Affixes are letters or groups of letters that are added to the beginning or end of a word to change its meaning or grammatical function. For example, the word "happy" can be changed to "unhappy" by adding the prefix "un-", which means "not" or "opposite of". The word "happily" can be created by adding the suffix "-ly" to the word "happy", which changes its grammatical function from an adjective to an adverb. Derivation is a common word-building strategy in English, and it is used to create a wide variety of new words. Some common affixes include prefixes, suffixes, and infixes. Prefixes are added to the beginning of a word, suffixes are added to the end, and infixes are added in the middle. Derivation is a key part of understanding how words are formed and how they relate to each other in a language.
