

Playground Memory

In elementary school, I had many experiences that garnered memories. I was often bullied on the playground during recess because of my skinniness and height. The larger boys saw me as a target for their ego to inflate. They might have had problems at home, or were bullied themselves, and were projecting their frustrations on me.

Anyways, after being locked in a locker, put headfirst into a toilet, punched and pushed around, called names, played jokes on, and other abuse, I finally had enough. I cracked. I could not psychologically take anymore hurt and punctures to my self-esteem.

A day or two after my birthday, I was on the school basketball court, shooting hoops. My mother had given me a basketball as a gift, and I was reveling in the fun of this new sport. But as expected (though I did not think about it at the time), another child started to bother me. He came up to me, and without a word, took the basketball out of my hands as I was dribbling. I was so shocked and emotionally tied to that gift that without a moment's notice, I punched the kid in the face. I knocked him down and he immediately ran away crying. I never asked if he was playfully taking the ball from me, but I had had enough bullying in my day to react strongly to such an action.

Apparently, the boy went to the principal and reported my violence. I was called to the principal's office during my next class, and walked in with my own form of ethics. The boy had been a bully, and he deserved a repercussion. However, the principal and I did not see eye to eye, naturally. He called my mother about the incident, and she was surprised that I would do such a thing. I had always been the quiet kid, playing with toys by himself, or tagging along with other children as more of a witness than a major participant. No one's mother expects their child to punch someone, but it happens for certain reasons. In my case, I had been dominated by my classmates for years, and that pent-up anger and shame resulted in a violent action.

From then on, I figured out that I did not need to be bullied. I could take action. I could respond. I found that my anger and resentment gave me a wild and unstoppable strength, which was unmatched by the usual fighting powers of a

Motivating Writers in Class

Bruce Saddler, 2023-04-14 Writing is a very complex process that is difficult to teach learn and research Although many students struggle with writing composing often presents major challenges for students with disabilities One area of written expression that presents particular difficulties for students with disabilities is motivation Motivation is a key aspect of written expression that helps all writers complete difficult composing tasks However students with disabilities may have more negative motivational patterns and may also be less positive about writing and their ability as writers than their normally achieving peers Logically this means that effective writing intervention efforts must not only address how to write but must also articulate methods to increase students motivation to write This book written for teachers scholars and researchers focuses on the essential issue of helping students learn how to want to write Each contributing author presents an important theoretical or pedagogical element of writing motivation for example The historical beginnings of research in this area Conceptual and methodological advances in the field of motivation to write Developmental trajectories of writing motivation in typical and atypical populations The effect of playful writing tasks on the development of writing ability as well as on motivation to write The impact of writing prompts on motivation How reading motivation relates and supports writing motivation This book was originally published as a special issue of Reading and Writing Quarterly English Skills, Grade 6 Broadwater,2008-09-03 Help English language learners write and speak in English with English Skills for grade 6 This 128 page book teaches English skills through whole group and individual instruction and includes reinforcement and enrichment activities This book covers topics such as grammar punctuation and writing The book also includes reproducibles a glossary of terms and an answer key Research in Education ,1974
