New Federal Income Tax regulations require donors claiming deduction for contributions consisting of property other than cash worth more than cash worth more than $500 to file Internal Revenue Service Form 8283, "Noncash Charitable Contribution," where the donor and charitable organization, either their publicly traded securities, and/or the $5000 (including similar property contributed to one or more charitable organizations), the donor and charitable organization must acknowledge the contribution on the Form 8283. In addition, donor charitable organizations are required to file Internal Revenue Service Form 8282, "Donor Information Return," when they dispose of certain property the recipient have acknowledged on a Form 8283. Wilkinson, 2020-03-17 This book explores the interplay and dialogue between faith communities and the humanitarian development community Faith and religion are key influencers of thought and practice in many communities around the world and development practitioners would not be able to change behaviours for improved health and social relations without the understanding and influence of those with authority in communities such as religious leaders Equally religious leaders feel responsibilities to their communities but do not necessarily have the technical knowledge and resources at hand to provide the information or services needed to promote the well being of all in their scope of influence The book demonstrates that partnerships between humanitarian development practitioners and religious communities can be mutually beneficial exchanges but that there are also frequently pitfalls along the way and opportunities for lessons to be learned by each party Delving into how humanitarians and faith communities engage with one another the book focuses on building knowledge about how they interact as peers with different yet complementary roles in community development The authors draw on the Channels of Hope methodology a tool which seeks to engage faith leaders in addressing social norms and enact social change as well as other related research in the sector to demonstrate the many ways in which humanitarian and development policy makers and practitioners could achieve more systematic engagement with faith groups This book is an important contribution to the growing body of literature on faith and development and will be useful both to researchers and to practitioners working with faith communities
