Chemistry Earl Rouse Glenn, Louis E. Welton, 1929 Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports, 1984 The Chemical Trade Journal and Oil, Paint and Colour Review, 1891 Nuclear Physics of Stars Christian Iliadis, 2015-03-19

Most elements are synthesized or cooked by thermonuclear reactions in stars. The newly formed elements are released into the interstellar medium during a star's lifetime and are subsequently incorporated into a new generation of stars, into the planets that form around the stars, and into the life forms that originate on the planets. Moreover, the energy we depend on for life originates from nuclear reactions that occur at the center of the Sun. Synthesis of the elements and nuclear energy production in stars are the topics of nuclear astrophysics, which is the subject of this book. It presents nuclear structure and reactions, thermonuclear reaction rates, experimental nuclear methods, and nucleosynthesis in detail. These topics are discussed in a coherent way, enabling the reader to grasp their interconnections intuitively. The book serves both as a textbook for advanced undergraduate and graduate students with worked examples and end-of-chapter exercises, but also as a reference book for use by researchers working in the field of nuclear astrophysics. Nuclear Science Abstracts, 1968

Thermodynamics of Solutions Eli Ruckenstein, Ivan L. Shulgin, 2009-06-17. This book consists of a number of papers regarding the thermodynamics and structure of multicomponent systems that we have published during the last decade. Even though they involve different topics and different systems, they have something in common which can be considered as the signature of the present book. First, these papers are concerned with difficult or very nonideal systems, i.e., systems with very strong interactions, e.g., hydrogen bonding between components or systems with large differences in the partial molar volumes of the components, e.g., the aqueous solutions of proteins or systems that are far from normal conditions, e.g., critical or near-critical mixtures. Second, the conventional thermodynamic methods are not sufficient for the accurate treatment of these mixtures. Last but not least, these systems are of interest for the pharmaceutical, biomedical, and related industries. In order to meet the thermodynamic challenges involved in these complex mixtures, we employed a variety of traditional methods but also new methods such as the fluctuation theory of Kirkwood and Buff and ab initio quantum mechanical techniques. The Kirkwood-Buff (KB) theory is a rigorous formalism which is free of any of the approximations usually used in the thermodynamic treatment of multicomponent systems. This theory appears to be very fruitful when applied to the above-mentioned difficult systems.
