a) Write an account of the measures taken by Roosevelt to help the unemployed (15)

One way in which FDR sought to provide immediate relief to unemployed Americans was introducing the Federal Emergency Relief Act (FERA). FERA provided $500 million in federal grants to state and local governments to fund relief programs for the unemployed. It aimed to address immediate needs, distributing money directly to families and funding public works projects. By 1935, it had provided relief for over 20 million people, showcasing its critical role in reducing widespread suffering as a result of unemployment during the Great Depression.

Next FDR introduced the CCC, an agency which provided jobs to young, unemployed people (16-25) to work on environmental conservation projects, such as reforestation, erosion prevention, and national park improvements. Participants earned $30 per month, which was sent home to their families. Over its lifetime, the CCC employed 3 million men and planted 3 billion trees, while improving over 800 state parks.

The TVA was designed to modernize the Tennessee Valley region, which was plagued by unemployment. It created jobs by building dams for flood control, improving irrigation and agricultural conditions, and providing electricity to millions of people, thus stimulating economic growth and providing standards of living.

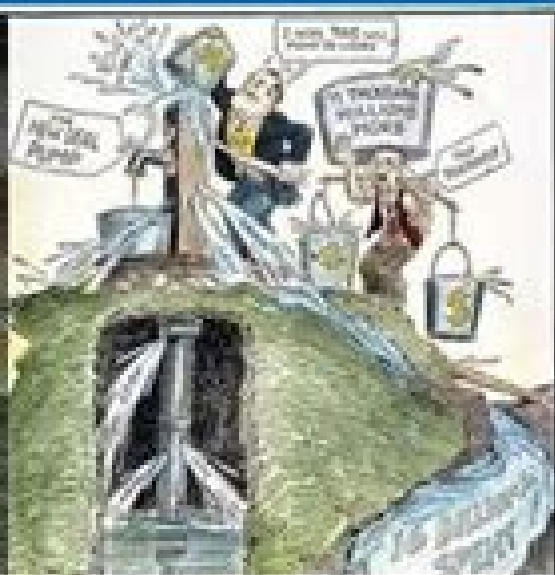

b) Discuss the impact of the First New Deal (25)

The First New Deal, introduced between 1933 and 1934 had a profound impact on the USA during the Great Depression. Although it did not end the Depression, it succeeded in providing immediate relief to millions of Americans, thus laying the foundations for long term economic recovery. In doing so, the New Deal evidenced to the people of America how vital state intervention was in times of socio-economic turmoil and fundamentally changed both the expectation and role of the Federal Government.

One of the most immediate and visible impacts of the First New Deal was the relief it provided to the unemployed and impoverished. Key agencies like the Federal Emergency Relief Administration (FERA) distributed over $3 billion to states to fund relief programs, which provided food, clothing, and housing for millions. The Civil Works Administration (CWA) provided short-term jobs to over 4 million people during the winter of 1933-34, providing a crucial lifeline for many.

Unearthing Indian Land Kristin T. Ruppel, 2008-12-15 Unearthing Indian Land offers a comprehensive examination of the consequences of more than a century of questionable public policies In this book Kristin Ruppel considers the complicated issues surrounding American Indian land ownership in the United States Under the General Allotment Act of 1887 also known as the Dawes Act individual Indians were issued title to land allotments while so called surplus Indian lands were opened to non Indian settlement During the forty seven years that the act remained in effect American Indians lost an estimated 90 million acres of land about two thirds of the land they had held in 1887 Worse the loss of control over the land left to them has remained an ongoing and insidious result Unearthing Indian Land traces the complex legacies of allotment including numerous instructive examples of a policy gone wrong Aside from the initial catastrophic land loss the fractionated land ownership that resulted from the act s provisions has disrupted native families and their descendants for more than a century With each new generation the owners of tribal lands grow in number and therefore own ever smaller interests in parcels of land It is not uncommon now to find reservation allotments co owned by hundreds of individuals Coupled with the federal government s troubled trusteeship of Indian assets this means that Indian landowners have very little control over their own lands Illuminated by interviews with Native American landholders this book is essential reading for anyone who is interested in what happened as a result of the federal government s quasi privatization of native lands Communicating the Future W.
