Prof. Dr. Erkan KARA,2022-11-11 This study is dedicated to investigating the long run relation between interest rate spreads and economic activities which include industrial production inflation and unemployment rate in OECD countries over the period between 2005 and 2015 by using panel data analysis This study will use the latest panel data models that take structural breaks and cross sectional dependency into account Besides using panel data analysis on this issue this paper will also try to see the effect of new monetary policies that are taking place by major central banks on yield spread and economic activities especially industrial production As it is known that in the post financial crisis of 2008 period major central banks such as the Federal Reserve¹ The FED was the first central bank that started to implement new monetary policies just after the collapse of several large scale investment banks in the U S European Central Bank Bank of Japan and Bank of England have taken action to stimulate the world economy Henceforth not only these major central banks but also other economies started to lower their policy interest rates soon in conventional way These policies pushed interest rates almost to zero and since then the rates have remained very low due to lower output level and disinflationary fears

Green Jobs for Sustainable Development Ana-Maria Boromisa, Sanja Tišma, Anastasya Ležaić, 2015-06-26 A green economy must be built on green jobs the kind of employment that is low carbon intended to reduce energy use and expected to restore environmental quality But attempts to define exactly what a green job is have led to varied and often contradictory answers There are many unresolved questions including whether we consider jobs in the nuclear fuel industry to be green jobs Or is a worker at a glass making company which supplies the glass for the solar photovoltaic industry doing a green job given that glass making is a dirty industry This book deals with the relationship between green concepts green jobs green economy green growth and sustainable development It examines to which extent creation of green jobs supports overall economic development as opposed to creation of elitist jobs and greenwashing In order to do so general conceptual frameworks for green jobs green economy green growth and green policy are presented as well as their implementation in ten countries selected among the Group of Twenty The selection includes advanced the European Union the United States of America Australia Canada Republic of Korea Japan and developing countries Mexico China Turkey and Brazil The analysis presented in this book shows that although green concept is well intentioned its implementation depends on local circumstances economic political and social Developed countries perceive green growth as a way to create new markets and demand while developing countries rely more on labor intensive growth and less expensive green jobs Thus greening the economy does not diminish differences between rich and poor This book is suitable for those who study and work in Ecological Economics Sustainable Development and Labor Economics
