

A4.2 Conservation of Biodiversity

HL

Guiding questions

- What factors are causing the sixth mass extinction of species?
- How can conservationists minimize the loss of biodiversity?

A4.2.1—Biodiversity as the variety of life in all its forms, levels and combinations

Biodiversity is an abbreviation for biological diversity and includes:

- _____ diversity—the variety of the combination of species living together in communities
- _____ diversity—the many species on the evolutionary tree of life
- _____ diversity within species—there is variation in the gene pool of each species

Biodiversity can be measured by:

1. _____—the number of species present
2. _____—having a similar abundance of each species present

A4.2.2—Comparisons between current number of species on Earth and past levels of biodiversity

Millions of species have been discovered, named and described but there are _____ species to be discovered. Evidence from fossils suggests that there are currently _____ species alive on Earth today than at any time in the past. There have been _____ mass extinctions when many species disappeared:

- The most recent was 66 million years ago when a huge _____ collided with the earth causing many species to die out, including all non-avian dinosaurs.
- The previous four mass extinctions have been attributed to _____ and major changes to the atmosphere and _____.

Between mass extinctions, biodiversity tends to _____ gradually as new species evolve. Because there have been no mass extinction events for 66 million years, biodiversity has been able to increase dramatically. However, _____ is causing what is predicted to be the _____ mass extinction, so this peak of biodiversity is unlikely to be sustained.

A4.2.3—Causes of anthropogenic species extinction

Causes of _____ species extinction (which means due to human activities):

1. _____—humans take plants and animals from natural ecosystems by hunting animals and harvesting plants. If species are taken at a _____ than they can reproduce, extinction will occur.
2. ~~Habitat destruction~~—natural habitats such as forests or grasslands were destroyed for agriculture and towns.
3. ~~Exotic species~~—when alien species are introduced to ecosystems either on purpose or by accident, they can drive native species to extinction by predation, spreading of pests or diseases, or competition for resources.
4. _____—examples include plastic waste washing up on beaches and burning of fossil fuels.
5. _____—if environmental conditions change slowly, plants and animals can adapt to new conditions. However, human activities are causing very _____ changes in temperature, rainfall, and snow cover, and some species will be unable to adapt and will face extinction.

Determine the causes of extinction of the following species:

North Island giant moose (Peromyscus novaezealandiae)
Caribbean monk seals (Monachus tropicalis)
Mount Glorious banded frog (Rhombophryne dumalis)

Ladle, Robert J. Whittaker, 2011-06-09 CONSERVATION BIOGEOGRAPHY The Earth s ecosystems are in the midst of an unprecedented period of change as a result of human action Many habitats have been completely destroyed or divided into tiny fragments others have been transformed through the introduction of new species or the extinction of native plants and animals while anthropogenic climate change now threatens to completely redraw the geographic map of life on this planet The urgent need to understand and prescribe solutions to this complicated and interlinked set of pressing conservation issues has lead to the transformation of the venerable academic discipline of biogeography the study of the geographic distribution of animals and plants The newly emerged sub discipline of conservation biogeography uses the conceptual tools and methods of biogeography to address real world conservation problems and to provide predictions about the fate of key species and ecosystems over the next century This book provides the first comprehensive review of the field in a series of closely interlinked chapters addressing the central issues within this exciting and important subject Priorities for the Conservation of Mammalian Diversity Abigail Entwistle, Nigel Dunstone, 2000-07-20 Scientific yet accessible review of mammalian conservation as a model demonstrating wider issues in conservation Prentice Hall Science Explorer: Teacher's ed ,2005 Federal Register ,2003 Rights to Plant Genetic Resources and Traditional Knowledge Susette Biber-Klemm, Thomas Cottier, 2006 This book will be of significant interest to those studying and researching

Entrepreneurship and Development for a Green Resilient Economy Adriana Grigorescu, Jean Vasile Andrei, 2024-07-04 This collection covers extensive ground in contemporary green entrepreneurship from fundamental theories such as business investments and venturing capital to emerging and new concepts that reflect critical challenges including technological development slowdowns economic resilience digitalization green business footprints Project Performance Report 2001 , Capitalism and Environmental Collapse Luiz Marques, 2020-08-17 This book intends to be an alert to the fact that the curve measuring environmental costs against the economic benefits of capitalism has irreversibly entered into a negative phase The prospect of an environmental collapse has been evidenced by the sciences and the humanities since the 1960s Today it imposes its urgency This collapse differs from past civilizations in that it is neither local nor just civilizational It is global and occurs at the broadest level of the biosphere accelerated by the convergence of different socio environmental crises such as Earth energy imbalance climate change and global warming Sea level rise Decrease and degradation of forests Collapse of terrestrial and aquatic biodiversity Floods droughts wildfires and extreme weather events Degradation of soils and water resources Increase in pollution caused by fossil fuels and coal Increase in waste production and industrial intoxication The book is divided in two parts In the first part it presents a comprehensive review of scientific data to show the already visible effects of each of the different environmental crises and its consequences to human life on Earth In the second part Luiz Marques critically discusses what he calls the three concentric illusions that prevent us from realizing the gravity of the current socio environmental crises the illusion of a sustainable capitalism the illusion that economic growth is still capable of providing more well being and the anthropocentric illusion Finally Marques argues that fitting back into the biosphere will only be possible if we dismantle the expansive socioeconomic gear that has shaped our societies since the 16th century by moving from a Social Contract to a Natural Contract which takes into account the whole biosphere According to him the future society will be post capitalist or it will not be a complex society and even perhaps we must fear no society at all This book is backed up with the latest and best science and has made the complexities understandable for the average reader all in a context of hope for the future William J Ripple PhD Distinguished Professor of Ecology Director of the Alliance of World Scientists Oregon State University International Judicial Practice on the Environment Christina Voigt, 2019-04-18 Evaluates the fundamental legitimacy of judicial practice in the growing number of environmental cases heard before international courts Dictionary of Ecological Economics Brent M. Haddad, Barry D. Solomon, 2023-02-14 This comprehensive Dictionary brings together an extensive range of definitive terms in ecological economics Assembling contributions from distinguished scholars it provides an intellectual map to this evolving subject ranging from the practical to the philosophical Strategic Landscape Monitoring for the Nordic Countries Geoff Groom, Tim Reed, 2001 Reforming Law and Economy for a Sustainable Earth Paul Anderson, 2014-09-19 Few concerns preoccupy contemporary progressive thought as much as the issue of how to achieve a sustainable human society The problems impeding this goal include those of how to arrest induced global environmental change GEC persistent disagreements about the contribution of economic activities to GEC and further differences in views on how these activities can be reformed in order to reduce the rate of change and thus to mitigate threats to much life on Earth Reforming Law and Economy for a Sustainable Earth aims to help resolve these problems in two ways Since addressing GEC will require global coordination the book first clarifies the conditions necessary to achieve this effectively Paul Anderson explores these conditions with the aid of a sustained analysis of key concepts in influential disciplines particularly in social and political theory and law relating to the transition to a sustainable economy Second Anderson tackles the problem of how to arrest GEC by incisively evaluating two leading theoretical positions in terms of their capacity to support the conditions required for effective global coordination From this basis the book offers an extensive critique of the idea that global environmental problems can be solved within the framework of global capitalism It also critically reviews and advances the proposition that global sustainability can be achieved only by changing the capitalist form of organizing the economy Enriched by a genuinely interdisciplinary approach the originality of Reforming Law and Economy for a Sustainable Earth lies in the manner it combines a rigorous analysis of the requirements for global sustainability with decisive conclusions as to what are and what are not viable means of fulfilling those requirements The book advances research on sustainability within key disciplines among them political theory law and social science by offering a timely and insightful statement about the global environmental predicament in the 21st century

Routledge Handbook of Urban Forestry Francesco Ferrini,Cecil C. Konijnendijk van den Bosch,Alessio Fini,2017-03-31 More than half the world s population now lives in cities Creating sustainable healthy and aesthetic urban environments is therefore a major policy goal and research agenda This comprehensive handbook provides a global overview of the state of the art and science of urban forestry It describes the multiple roles and benefits of urban green areas in general and the specific role of trees including for issues such as air quality human well being and stormwater management It reviews the various stresses experienced by trees in cities and tolerance mechanisms as well as cultural techniques for either pre conditioning or alleviating stress after planting It sets out sound planning design species selection establishment and management of urban trees It shows that close interactions with the local urban communities who benefit from trees are key to success By drawing upon international state of art knowledge on arboriculture and urban forestry the book provides a definitive overview of the field and is an essential reference text for students researchers and practitioners
