The nervous system is a complex system that controls and coordinates all the activities of the body. It is made up of the brain, spinal cord, and nerves. The brain is the central part of the nervous system and is responsible for processing information from the senses and controlling the body's responses. The spinal cord is a long, thin structure that runs down the back and is responsible for transmitting information between the brain and the rest of the body. Nerves are bundles of fibers that carry messages between the brain, spinal cord, and the rest of the body.

The nervous system is divided into two main parts: the central nervous system (CNS) and the peripheral nervous system (PNS). The CNS is made up of the brain and spinal cord, while the PNS is made up of all the other nerves in the body. The PNS is further divided into the somatic nervous system, which controls voluntary movements, and the autonomic nervous system, which controls involuntary functions like heart rate and digestion.
