Transformative Food Value Chains for Local Development Silke Maria Stöber, Wolfgang Bokelmann, Walter Odongo, Susanne Huyskens-Keil, Joanita Kataike, 2024-01-26 Understanding the capacity of food systems to undertake a transformation towards sustainability requires understanding how resources stream in and out of the systems As complex socio economic structures food and agricultural value chains are important means for channeling resources knowledge and agency in and out of rural areas Given their prominent role on the development agendas there is mixed evidence as to what extent value chains and their actors can contribute to improving the livelihoods in poor rural and urban areas In order to shape sustainable living places transformative capacities and good governance are important mainstays Transformative agri food value chains are robust and often act as the sole transmission belt for returning capital resources and identity back into vulnerable areas Moreover domestic or regional chains may provide urban consumers with fresh quality food that also contributes to regional identity

Wildcheck - Assessing the risks and opportunities of trade in wild plant ingredients Schindler, C., Heral, E., Drinkwater, E., Timoshyna, A., Muir, G., Walter, S., Leaman, D.J., Schippmann, U., 2022-04-22 Thousands of consumer products around the world contain ingredients obtained from wild plants Wild harvest accounts for some or all the harvest of the great majority of plant species in trade between 60 90 percent Wild harvested plants often come from the most biodiverse ecosystems on earth and many have been used traditionally or by local communities for generations While these products have global markets and provide critical sources of income they can also have deep ties to particular cultures and places Demand for wild plant ingredients is growing rapidly having grown by over 75 percent in value over the past two decades Thousands of harvested species are at risk mainly from a combination of overharvest and habitat loss of the 21 percent of medicinal and aromatic plant species whose threat status has been assessed 9 percent are considered threatened with extinction Despite their ubiquity importance and the threats facing them wild plant ingredients are often obscured from consumers and escape companies due diligence due to a lack of awareness and traceability Best practice standards exist but have yet to capture a significant portion of the market This report aims to address these challenges by making information on a selection of flagship wild plant ingredients the Wild Dozen readily available and easy to understand By offering this information without obligation to a specific prescription for follow up action e.g. through certification or policy change it is hoped that a wide range of users will access the report as a first step towards responsible sourcing. Along with a broader update on the state of wild plants trade the report provides a profile on each of the Wild Dozen species summarising key facts on production and trade. Each profile contains a traffic light risk rating on biological and social factors along with an overview of opportunities for responsible sourcing. The information is aimed at industry consumers, policy makers, investors and practitioners concluding with a summary of what these various stakeholders can do to contribute to a sectoral shift towards responsible sourcing of wild plant ingredients.

Remittances and Financial Inclusion Vincent

Guermond, 2023-10-11 This book comprehensively explores the messy and contested relationship between everyday practices of remittance sending and receiving, processes of market making and operations of micro and global finance. Remittances and Financial Inclusion critically investigates a global migration development agenda that aims to harness remittances for development by incorporating remittance flows and households into global financial circuits. The book develops a multidisciplinary perspective and combines insights from economic development and financial geography as well as international political economy and economic anthropology. It sets out a geographies of remittance marketisation approach to investigate the intricate and grounded ways in which remittance markets are constructed, the extent to which remittance flows and households can be re-configured and incorporated into global finance and why such processes are always fragile, contested and in need of constant renegotiation. Drawing on extensive fieldwork research, the book provides an in-depth critical interrogation of the policies and initiatives that underpin remittance marketisation in Senegal, Ghana and beyond. This volume will be especially useful to those researching and working in the areas of international development, contemporary geographies of finance and market making and migration and remittances. It should also prove of interest to policymakers, practitioners and activists concerned with the relation between migration, remittances and finance in the Global South.

Sustainable Use of Feed Additives in Livestock Georgios Arsenos, Ilias Giannenas, 2023-12-28 This book offers a comprehensive collection of cutting edge research on feed additives for a sustainable animal production including insects and aquaculture. In five clearly structured sections, the sources of feed additives, details on their biochemistry, feed security as well as specific applications for individual farm animal species, livestock health and product characteristics (meat, milk and eggs) find attention. International expert authors provide a full description on the use of aromatic plants, extracts and essential oils as feed additives alone or in combination with functional feeds of different categories. Readers will explore the potential of feed additives to tackle environmental issues. Practical examples include the use of local feedstuffs in combination with herbal additives and enzymes. Emphasis is placed on the consequences of using local feed sources versus imported feedstuffs on global warming potential, primary energy use, nutrient excretion and the feed additive influence on lessening the pollution from animal operations. The results presented will support realization of the Sustainable Development Goals in particular

SDG 12 which stands for Responsible Consumption and Production worldwide The use of novel and different feed additives can be an important tool to enhance sustainability support productivity and match increased food demands around the globe Animal production depends on feed efficiency to sustain growth and profitability Along these lines the present volume is an essential reading for all future oriented veterinarians animal nutritionists agricultural scientists and moreover the feed food and plant industry

Choice ,1973 The Pull of Postcolonial Nationhood Ayo A. Coly,2010-06-23 While the male dominated Francophone African migrant literary tradition includes women writers there is no study that attends to this subgroup of writers The Pull of Postcolonial Nationhood Gender and Migration in Francophone African Literatures pioneers the study of these writers as a category through an examination of three major women who exemplify the Francophone African female migrant literary tradition Ken Bugul Calixthe Beyala and Fatou Diome By studying these women together Ayo A Coly innovatively introduces gender into prevailing theories of Francophone African migrant literatures These theories in line with the current surge of postnationalism in cultural criticism claim that questions of home and nationhood are obsolete for the present generation of Francophone African migrant writers but this book shows that the opposite is true in the texts of these writers Coly is thus able to demonstrate how claims of postnationalism are often skewed by gender blind understandings of nationalism namely a failure to consider that women have traditionally been the sites for discourses and practices of nationalism Amid the negative currency of home and nation in contemporary cultural criticism including postcolonial criticism this book contends that home remains a politically ideologically and emotionally loaded matter for postcolonial subjects

The Anatomy of Architecture Suzanne Preston Blier,1994 Blier illuminates the extraordinary architecture of the Batammaliba people of Western Africa revealing these buildings as texts through which we can read the beliefs psychology traditions and social concerns of their inhabitants In doing so she explores the role of vernacular architecture as an expression of culture A splendid analysis of the centrality of architecture in the daily lives of the Batammaliba and its integral role in articulating social values The story is beautifully told in the best of anthropological traditions Judith R Blau Contemporary Society A remarkable study Blier s volume carries the study of African architecture to a qualitatively new level of scholarship It introduces a new dimension whereby the architectural medium can be used to illuminate much of the entire belief system of any culture

Labelle Prussin African Arts In this excellent book Blier provides a richly detailed and searching account of what architecture means to the Batammaliba of northern Togo and Benin The finest account I have yet read of the relations between systems of beliefs ritual practices and African aesthetics and plastic arts The ethnography and basic insight should be the envy of any social anthropologist T O Beidelman Man Tropical Fruit Tree Diversity Bhuwon Sthapit,Hugo Lamers,Ramanatha Rao,Arwen Bailey,2016-05-12 Farmers have developed a range of agricultural practices to sustainably use and maintain a wide diversity of crop species in many parts of the world This book documents good practices innovated by farmers and collects key reviews on good practices from global experts not only from the case study countries but also from Brazil China and other parts of Asia and Latin America A good practice for diversity is defined as a system organization or process that over time and space maintains enhances and creates crop genetic diversity and ensures its availability to and from farmers and other users Drawing on experiences from a UNEP GEF project on Conservation and Sustainable Use of Wild and Cultivated Tropical Fruit Tree Diversity for Promoting Livelihoods Food Security and Ecosystem Services with case studies from India Indonesia Malaysia and Thailand the authors show how methods for identifying good practices are still evolving and challenges in scaling up remain They identify key principles effective as a strategy for mainstreaming good practice into development efforts Few books draw principles and lessons learned from good practices This book fills this gap by combining good practices from the research project on tropical fruit trees with chapters from external experts to broaden its scope and relevance and Ferns of the Transvaal with Swaziland, South Africa, by Joseph Burt Davy. With Illustrations by W. E. Trevithick and Alice Bolton Davy Joseph Burt Davy, 1926 Reframing Deforestation James Fairhead, Melissa Leach, 2003-09-02 This study reviews how West African deforestation is represented and the evidence which informs deforestation orthodoxy On a country by country basis covering Sierra Leone Liberia Cote D Ivoire Ghana Togo and Benin and using historical and social anthropological evidence the authors evaluate this orthodox critically Reframing Deforestation suggests that the scale of deforestation wrought by West African farmers during the twentieth century has been vastly exaggerated The authors argue that global analyses have unfairly stigmatised West Africa and obscured its more sustainable even landscape enriching practices Stressing that dominant policy approaches in forestry and conservation require major rethinking worldwide Reframing Deforestation illustrates that more realistic assessments of forest cover change and more respectful attention to local knowledge and practices are necessary bases for effective and appropriate environmental policies John Muir's Last Journey John Muir, 2013-04-10 I am now writing up some notes but when they will be ready for publication I do not know It will be a long time before anything is arranged in book form These words of John Muir written in June 1912 to a friend proved prophetic The journals and notes to which the great naturalist and environmental figure was referring have languished unpublished and virtually untouched for nearly a century Until now Here edited and published for the first time John Muir's travel journals from 1911-12 along with his associated correspondence finally allow us to read in his own words the remarkable story of John Muir's last great journey Leaving from Brooklyn New York in August 1911 John Muir at the age of seventy three and traveling alone embarked on an eight month 40 000 mile voyage to South America and Africa The 1911-12 journals and correspondence reproduced in this volume allow us to travel with him up the great Amazon into the jungles of southern Brazil to snowline in the Andes through southern and central Africa to the headwaters of the Nile and across six oceans and seas in order to reach the rare forests he had so long wished to study Although this epic journey has received almost no attention from the many commentators on Muir's work Muir himself considered it among the most important of his life and the fulfillment of a decades long dream John Muir's Last Journey provides a rare glimpse of a Muir whose interests as a naturalist traveler and conservationist extended well beyond the mountains of California It also helps us to see John Muir as a different kind of hero one whose endurance and intellectual curiosity carried him into far fields of adventure even as he aged and as a private person and family man with genuine affections ambitions and fears not just an iconic representative of American wilderness With an introduction that sets Muir's trip in the context of his life and work along with chapter introductions and a wealth of explanatory notes the book adds important dimensions to our appreciation of one of America's greatest environmentalists John Muir's Last Journey is a must reading for students and scholars of environmental history American literature natural history and related fields as well as for naturalists and armchair travelers everywhere A New English Dictionary on Historical Principles James Augustus Henry Murray, Henry Bradley, Sir William Alexander
