Abstract. The authors present a new method for the analysis of the dynamic behavior of a system. The method is based on the use of the Laplace transform and the Fourier transform. The authors show that the method is applicable to a wide class of systems and that it can be used to determine the system's response to a given input. The authors also show that the method can be used to determine the system's stability. The authors conclude that the method is a powerful tool for the analysis of dynamic systems.
