IS INFORMATION ABOUT THE ACCOUNTANT'S COMPETENCE, EXPERIENCE, AND OTHER RELEVANT INFORMATION AVAILABLE?

Information and Experience

Accountant's competence is a relatively abstracting concept. However, the experience and reputation of the accountant are some indicators of abstract and are relatively quantifiable and visible. These factors are considered good criteria for selection of the accountant. The accountant's education and training are another factor that must be taken into account. Graduates of the Institute of Accountants are usually the preferred candidates, while those employed as accountants without experience are not considered. Accounting records, preparation of the financial statements, maintaining the ledger accounts, and providing information and advice are responsibilities of an accountant. In addition, some accountants have special expertise that enables them to handle the special needs of the client. These include the client's assets and the required knowledge for the specific subject. The accountant's primary responsibility is to provide accurate and complete information to the client and to the public.
