Pensoneau-Conway, Tony E.

Adams, Derek M. passion influence decisions about what gets researched who is positioned as researcher or participant and how data are collected analyzed and ultimately represented in public ways Tilley explores the intersecting elements of the research process which include deciding on a research focus and articulating research questions choosing an appropriate research site and participants collecting analyzing and representing data and making decisions about the dissemination and publication of findings She emphasizes the dilemmas researchers experience when faced with issues of respectful representation of data participants and research contexts Unique to the book are the comprehensive discussions of the advisement process and the student advisor relationship and Tilley's use of her doctoral research to carefully illustrate elements of the research process Each chapter ends with an annotated bibliography of relevant research connected to concepts addressed in the chapter Tilley offers a comprehensive consideration of research ethics including guidance for the completion of institutional requirements for review of research involving human participants and an exploration of the complicated ethical issues that emerge during the research process Doing Respectful Research is written for student researchers individuals who teach and advise students instructors of qualitative research courses in social sciences health and education and community members interested in qualitative methods and conducting research Unity from

Diversity Ray W. Cooksey, 2024-07-15 This book is about the choices that researchers can make when building knowledge in social and behavioural spaces Knowledge is the unity we seek and given that social and behavioural research is a human endeavour focusing on human lives and experiences there are diverse and ever evolving pathways towards achieving that unity Any one pathway will only ever yield partial glimpses into human life and diversity of potential choices serves to enrich expand and enlarge those glimpses in pursuit of more complete understanding The book shows that researchers and the researched are far more connected than disconnected in this world and those connections are spread out through a network of interlinked complex systems The book argues that pluralist systemic thinking provides the means by which a researcher's methodological choices for navigating the Data Triangle comprising data source data gathering and data analysis strategies and the learning they provide can be fully and robustly contextualised with respect to those systems and the expectations and influences that emerge from them Such contextualisations facilitate the refinement augmentation and or narrowing of those choices during the researcher's journey Anticipating choices downstream may have implications for more immediate choices and more immediate choices may create a cascade of necessary downstream choices An essential part of contextualisation involves making choices about patterns of guiding assumptions modes of knowledge building and research frames Researchers must develop the capacity to be flexible and adapt to unanticipated emergent events obstacles and political influences making trade offs where necessary throughout their research journey always with an eye on both feasibility and quality Importantly research has no meaning unless the researcher can ensure that it connects with intended audiences via specific research outcomes especially since the ultimate judgments about the convincingness meaningfulness quality and utility of the research are vested in those audiences Throughout the book special attention is devoted to the role s that stakeholders and gatekeepers play in shaping the researcher s journey as well as to what can be learned from Indigenous First Nations perspectives on social and behavioural research Rethinking Practice, Research and Education Kevin J. Flint, 2015-02-26 Rethinking Practice Research and Education brings together philosophy with traditional methodological discourse and opens a space for critical thinking in social and educational research Drawing on the work of Heidegger Derrida Foucault and their descendants this engaging critical examination of practice applies a deconstructive reading to the practices of research Where is justice in the practice of research How do paradigms for the production of knowledge shape what is given in the practice of research What are the key issues involved in developing an ethos for the practice of research in the light of society s complex relationship with essential forms of technology Each of these dimensions are explored drawing on the traditions of research and their interplay with researchers responsibilities to work towards justice in research A must read for researchers bringing the language of philosophy to the current debate about the impact of social and educational research in practice
