examines television culture in Russia under the government of Vladimir Putin. In recent years the growing influx into Russian television of globally mediated genres and formats has coincided with a decline in media freedom and a ratcheting up of government control over the content style of television programmes. All three national channels First Russia NTV have fallen victim to Putin's power obsessed regime. Journalists critical of his Chechnya policy have been subject to harassment and arrest programmes courting political controversy such as Savik Shuster's Freedom of Speech Svoboda slova have been taken off the air coverage of national holidays like Victory Day has witnessed a return of Soviet style bombast and reporting on crises such as the Beslan tragedy is severely curtailed. The book demonstrates how broadcasters have been enlisted in support of a transparent effort to install a latter day version of imperial pride in Russian military achievements at the centre of a national identity project over which from the depths of the Kremlin Putin's government exerts a form of remote control. However central to the book's argument is the notion that because of the changes wrought upon Russian society after 1985 a blanket return to the totalitarianism of the Soviet media has notwithstanding the tenor of much western reporting on the issue not occurred. Despite the fact that television is nominally under state control that control remains remote and less than wholly effective as amply demonstrated in the audience research conducted for the book and in analysis of contradictions at the textual level. Overall this book provides a fascinating account of the role of television under President Putin and will be of interest to all those wishing to understand contemporary Russian society. Select Works of the British Poets John

Aikin, 1843 Memory and Identity in the Narratives of Soledad Puértolas Tamara L. Townsend, 2014-09-09 Narratives of contemporary Spanish writer Soledad Puértolas 1947 inducted into the Real Academia Española in 2010 depict the psychological struggles of the individual in postmodern democratic European society. Puértolas's realist style emphasizes storytelling and character portrayal and her urban middle class characters seek satisfying interactions with others and a sense of purpose. Memory aids characters in their quest for meaning and identity and their use of memory reveals their self perception and outlook on life. This book maps four ways in which Puértolas's narratives use memory to approach the fundamental problem of the individual's search for purpose and identity. Some characters are burdened by memory in certain texts especially Das del Arenal 1992 and Burdeos 1986. Reflection upon a painful self defining memory affects their present mood and behavior. For some this burden causes them to withdraw or to act irresponsibly others accept and overcome the scars of the past. A second type of character takes an escapist approach to memory as seen in Queda la noche 1989. Their nostalgic retreat indicates a restless dissatisfaction with the present. In a third type of memory a secondary character provides the organizing force behind a protagonist's reminiscences often an extroverted foil to highlight the protagonist's introspective nature. Memory of the relationship motivates the protagonist to mentally order his or her own life through the life review process. Una vida inesperada 1997 and La se ora Berg 1998 provide examples. Finally in the amnesic mode Puértolas departs from realism to experiment with different forms of amnesia as in La rosa de plata 1999 and Si al atardecer llegara el mensajero 1995 Memory loss highlights the centrality of memory to personhood and identity while at the same time it draws attention to the inadequacy of memory to explain the totality of existence The Cosmopolitan, 1921
