Sampeck, 2017-11-08 Chocolate and sugar alcohol and tobacco peyote and hallucinogenic mushrooms these seductive substances have been a nexus of desire for both pleasure and profit in Mesoamerica since colonial times But how did these substances seduce And when and how did they come to be desired and then demanded even by those who had never encountered them before The contributors to this volume explore these questions across a range of times places and peoples to discover how the individual pleasures of consumption were shaped by social cultural economic and political forces Focusing on ingestible substances as a group which has not been done before in the scholarly literature the chapters in Substance and Seduction trace three key links between colonization and commodification First as substances that were taken into the bodies of both colonizers and colonized these foods and drugs participated in unexpected connections among sites of production and consumption racial and ethnic categories and free forced and enslaved labor regimes Second as commodities developed in the long transition from mercantile to modern capitalism each substance in some way drew its enduring power from its ability to seduce to stimulate bodies to alter minds to mark class social and ethnic boundaries and to generate wealth Finally as objects of scholarly inquiry each substance rewards interdisciplinary approaches that balance the considerations of pleasure and profit materiality and morality and culture and political economy
