Diverse educational contexts and research on metacognition and motivation to enhance self-directed learning Bernadette

Geduld, Byron J. Bunt, Divan Jagals, 2025-02-17 This scholarly book explores the latest education research on metacognition and self-directed learning, providing practical insights for educators and students. As the thirteenth volume in the NWU Self-Directed Learning Series, it focuses on developing metacognitive skills to enhance self-regulation, motivation and independent thinking, key competencies for success in the 21st century. Metacognition plays a vital role in learning, helping students plan, evaluate and self-assess their progress. Research shows that students with strong metacognitive strategies achieve better learning outcomes, apply knowledge effectively and persist through academic challenges. This book offers evidence-based teaching strategies to support the development of self-regulated learning and motivation in diverse educational settings. It examines teaching behaviour and instructional methods that foster metacognitive growth in both basic and higher education. With a particular focus on the South African education landscape, it extends research in cognitive, developmental and applied psychology. Researchers and educators will find practical approaches for integrating metacognition into various disciplines, making this book a valuable resource for both undergraduate and graduate education programmes. Re-Envisioning and Restructuring Blended Learning for Underprivileged Communities Bosch, Chantelle, Laubscher, Dorothy Joy, Kyei-Blankson, Lydia, 2021-05-14 Challenges in the educational arena are not new phenomena. However, with the recent outbreak of the COVID-19 pandemic, researchers and educators have been made even more aware of the need for a paradigm shift in education. Blended learning, as opposed to fully online learning or traditional face-to-face teaching, has been well researched and has been found to have the potential to provide better educational solutions in challenging contexts. These contexts range from pandemic situations where social distancing is the order of the day to financial and time constraints regarding full-time study as well as limited physical capacity at institutions. Blended learning solutions are often designed for resourceful institutions and cannot be easily implemented in developing countries and in communities where resources are limited. Typical issues like connectivity, accessibility, lack of suitable devices and affordability need to be taken into consideration and in cognizance of blended learning interventions. These challenges are often neglected in blended learning research but are critical discussions to be had. Re Envisioning and Restructuring Blended Learning for Underprivileged Communities shares how institutions in the developing world and less privileged communities have reimagined and restructured blended education to enhance teaching and learning for underprivileged communities. This book aims to address blended learning solutions across institutional, program, course and activity levels. The chapters will cover a variety of learning environments from rural settings to less developed countries and more and explore the programs and courses designed to improve student success and accessibility in diverse student populations. This book is ideally intended for teachers, administrators, teacher educators, practitioners, stakeholders, researchers, academicians and students who are interested in blended learning opportunities in less privileged settings and to underserved and marginalized populations.

The Status of Student Involvement in University Governance in Kenya Mulinge, Munyae M., Arasa, Josephine N., 2017-05-05. This book examines the concept of the democratization of governance in universities in Kenya with particular emphasis on students' involvement in governance processes and decision making. Data were collected from members of the student community utilizing a structured self-administered questionnaire and from purposively selected key informants and focus group discussants drawn from Kenyatta University representing the public sector and the United States International University representing the private sector. The guiding argument for the study was that shared governance, one of the principles of good governance, is critical in enabling the universities to deliver their visions and the missions effectively. The results revealed that while in principle Kenyan universities have embraced democratic governance in which all stakeholders including students have a role to play, in practice they continue to violate the core principles of good governance, particularly shared governance. Specifically, students who are major stakeholders in university education are largely excluded from significant structures of governance, thereby limiting their influence and participation. Although their representation is mainly provided via student self-governance organs, unions, associations and/or councils, their effectiveness is undermined considerably by the lack of trust and confidence of the student body and the unending manipulation by top university administrators and external political actors. Student active involvement in decision making is mainly confined to lower levels such as the school faculty and departmental programme. The authors call for a paradigm shift in the involvement of students in the governance of universities in ways that discourage the current culture of tokenism and political correctness that characterizes public and private universities in Kenya.

The Oxford Handbook of Johannine Studies Judith M. Lieu, Martinus C. de Boer, 2018-07-19. The contribution of the Johannine literature to the development of Christian theology and particularly to Christology is uncontested, although careful distinction between the implications of its language, especially that of sonship, in a first century Jewish context and in the subsequent theological controversies of the early Church has been particularly important if not always easily sustained Recent study has shaken off the weight of subsequent Christian appropriation of Johannine language which has sometimes made readers immune to the ambiguities and challenging tensions in its thought The Oxford Handbook of Johannine Studies begins with chapters concentrating on discussions of the background and context of the Johannine literature leading to the different ways of reading the text and thence to the primary theological themes within them before concluding with some discussion of the reception of the Johannine literature in the early church Inevitably given their different genres and levels of complexity some chapters pay most if not all attention to the Gospel whereas others are more able to give a more substantial place to the letters All the contributors have themselves made significant contributions to their topic They have sought to give a balanced introduction to the relevant scholarship and debate but they have also been able to present the issues from their own perspective The Handbook will help those less familiar with the Johannine literature to get a sense of the major areas of debate and why the field continues to be one of vibrant and exciting study and that those who are already part of the conversation will find new insights to enliven their own on going engagement with these writings A Scholarship of Doctoral Education Petro du Preez,Shan

Simmonds,2018-11-21 This edited collection is cohesive by a focus on becoming becoming a doctoral student becoming a researcher becoming an academic and becoming a supervisor This journey of becoming takes us from pre enrolment in a doctoral programme through the many phases of candidature and into the post doctoral environment Both advancing theory and providing very practical examples this book is of immense value to doctoral students and academics not only in South Africa for whom it should be a mandatory read but also for doctoral education researchers doctoral students and supervisors worldwide as the themes covered extend well beyond the borders of South Africa Biblical Theological Investigations into the Incomprehensibility of God Francis Viljoen,Albert J. Coetsee,2025-10-14

Biblical Theological Investigations into the Incomprehensibility of God draws readers into the profound attribute of God s incomprehensibility as witnessed in the unfolding narrative of Scripture While systematic theology has long affirmed the incomprehensibility of God this volume breaks new ground by exploring this attribute through the lens of biblical theology tracing its expression in specific texts of the Old and New Testaments Originating from the 2024 EABS conference in Sofia the chapters in this volume represent research by scholars who examine how biblical texts portray God as both revealed and ultimately unfathomable by means of detailed exegetical studies ECEL 2019 18th European Conference on e-Learning Rikke Ørngreen,Bente Meyer,Mie Buhl ,2019-11-07

Beyond Expropriation Without Compensation Olaf Zenker,Cherryl Walker,Zsa-Zsa

Boggenpoel,2024-04-04 Speeding up land reform through a constitutional amendment that would explicitly permit the expropriation of land without compensation has dominated legal and political policy debates in South Africa in recent years Taking this politically and emotionally charged issue as its starting point this volume offers both expert commentary on this issue from a variety of disciplinary perspectives and also fresh ideas on how to advance the redistributive transformation that South Africa so urgently needs. It brings critically important debates around transformative property law, the need for diversified land justice and the possibilities of alternative forms of redistribution into productive conversation with each other. While grounded in the complex realities of South Africa's past and present, the volume speaks to concerns that resonate in many contexts in the Global South and beyond. It will appeal to scholars, students, policymakers and general readers concerned with both the theory and practice of redistributive justice. This title is also available as Open Access on Cambridge Core.

African Perspectives on Reshaping Rural Development Mafukata, Mavhungu Abel, Tshikolomo, Khathutshelo Alfred, 2019-11-22

Development studies in developing regions such as Southern Africa rely heavily on materials developed by Europeans with a European context. European dominance in development studies emanates from the fact that the discipline was first developed by Europeans. Some argue that this has led to distortions in theory and practice of development in Southern Africa. This book wishes to begin Africa's expedition to develop proper material to de-Westernize while Africanizing the context of the scholarship of rural development. African Perspectives on Reshaping Rural Development is an essential reference source that repositions the context of rural development studies from the Western-centric knowledge system into an African context in order to solve African-centered problems. Featuring research on topics such as food security, poverty reduction and community engagement, this book is ideally designed for planners, researchers, practitioners, policymakers, government officials, academicians and students seeking clarity on theory and practice of development in Africa.
