

Remember that walls on the exterior side and floor panels through the ceiling have to be secured on the convenient side only.

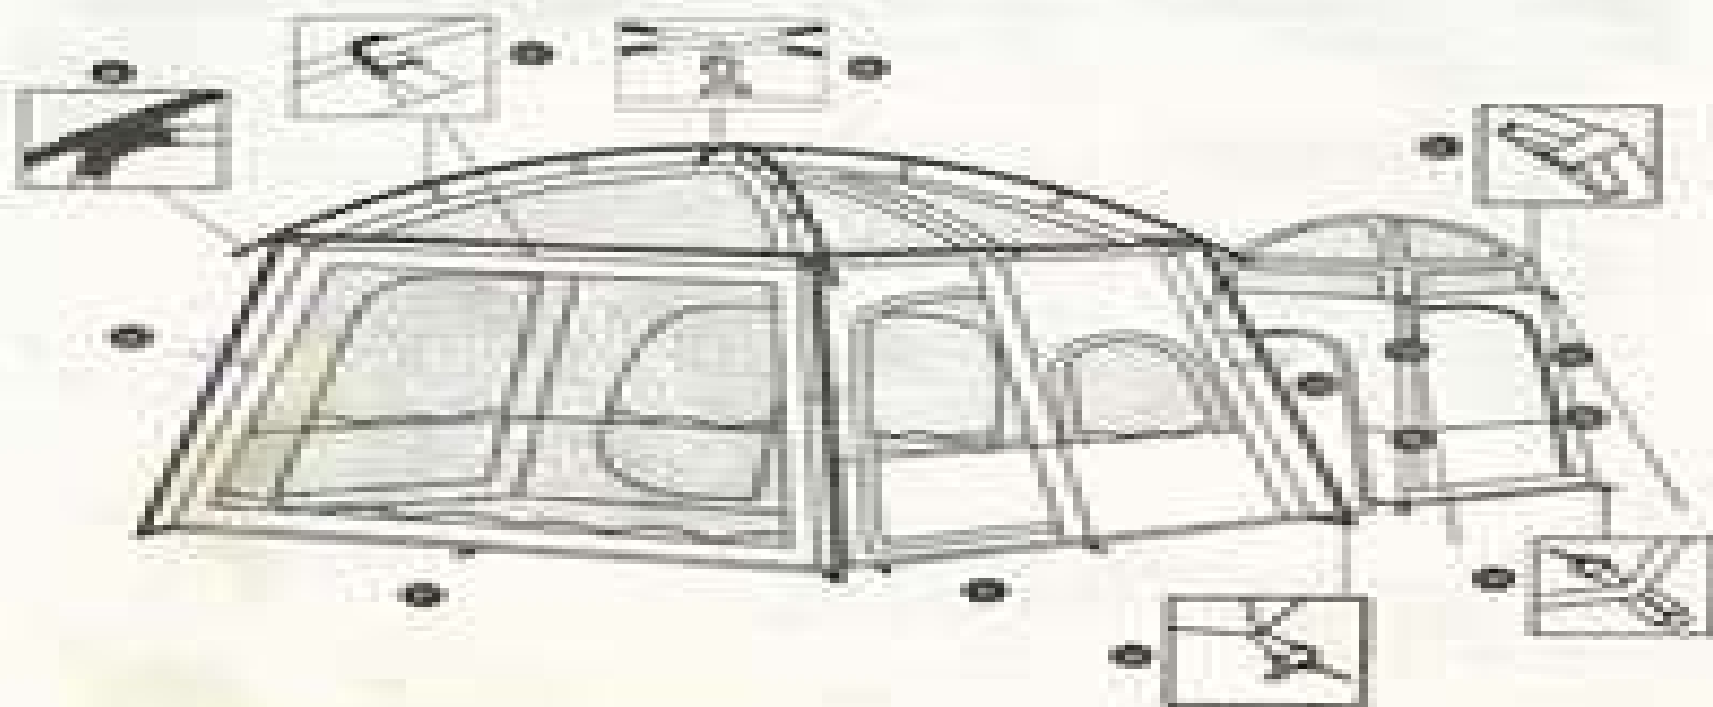

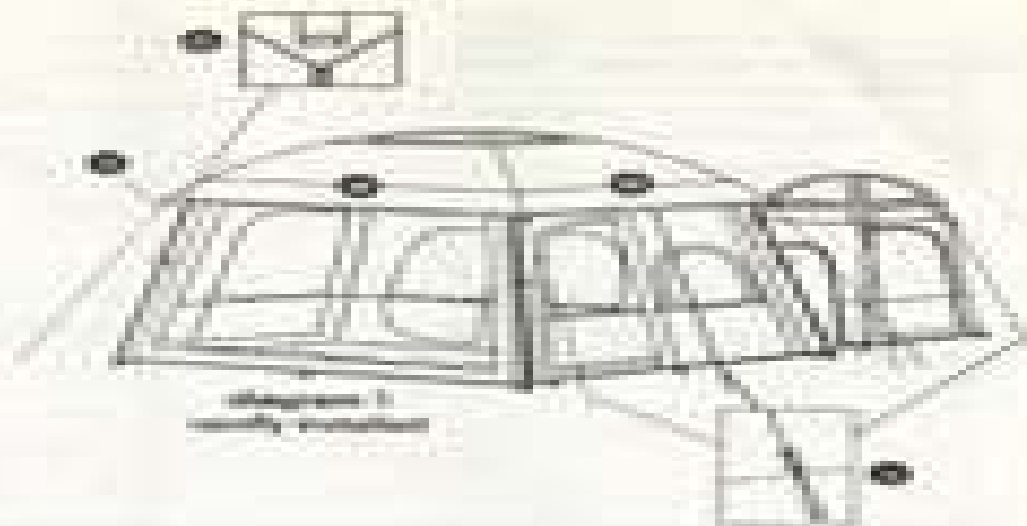

Install the guy lines as provided on the tent.

It is recommended that the interior support bag, floor, and base support battens are used whenever it is possible to keep the tent upright and secure.

Using the ceiling hook as a lifeline

The ceiling hook attachment is designed to be used in a "pinch" or "sling" in general use over changing loads. However, it is possible that the ceiling hook attachment may provide a more secure support system than the hanging hook and may hold the tent up in the event of a failure.

Make sure that you have positioned the ceiling hook in a place where it will hold the tent up in the event of a failure.
