Observing The Proprieties Other Femme Dom Erotica:

Re-Telling Our Stories Gresilda A Tilley-Lubbs, Silvia Bénard Calva, 2016-07-08 This book presents the collaborative work of two professors one in Mexico and the other in the United States and their respective students participants in a Ph D course called Critical Autoethnography The chapters emerged from virtual conversations as doctoral students and professors examined the intersections between critical pedagogy and autoethnography They problematized the cultural and theoretical intersections between the participants in both countries questioning whether their differences were causes or results of power and privilege They used dialogue as inquiry to interrogate the theoretical perspectives that framed their prior experiences They realized that these perspectives reflected their cultures and that although they often intersected they diverged at times The fluidity of the learning experience shaped the chapters that form the book sections including the theory and the praxis or exemplars of performing critical autoethnography Each author explores personal experiences or events through the lens of critical pedagogy underscoring the problematization of the cultural and societal context that shaped their actions in particular as they performed in racial ethnic and religious settings that reflected power and privilege The two professors served as editors and authors as they engaged in constant iterative peer review and dialogue Both the Mexican and the United States perspectives are reflected throughout the book and it is this global perspective that separates this book from others that deal with similar topics

Games of Property Thadious M. Davis, 2003-07-07 Using Faulkner's Go Down Moses as a point of departure this book explores the conflicting nature of property relations that have slavery in the U S at their base and have affected the conceptualizations of rights and representations of African A Dominant Women

Submissive Men Gini Graham Scott, 1983 Point of Sale Daniel Herbert, Derek Johnson, 2019-12-13 Point of Sale offers the first significant attempt to center media retail as a vital component in the study of popular culture It brings together fifteen essays by top media scholars with their fingers on the pulse of both the changes that foreground retail in a digital age and the history that has made retail a fundamental part of the culture industries The book reveals why retail matters as a site of transactional significance to industries as well as a crucial locus of meaning and interactional participation for consumers In addition to examining how industries connect books DVDs video games lifestyle products toys and more to consumers it also interrogates the changes in media circulation driven by the collision of digital platforms with existing retail institutions By grappling with the contexts in which we buy media Point of Sale uncovers the underlying tensions that define the contemporary culture industries

Bell,1993-07-02 Selected by Choice as an Outstanding Academic Book for 1995 Moving beyond the traditional feminist ethics of care Linda A Bell places an existentialist conception of liberation at the heart of ethics and argues that only an ethics of freedom sufficiently allows for feminist critique and opposition to a status quo imbued with violence She offers a critique of Aristotelian utilitarian and Kantian ethics analyzing each approach from feminist perspectives and showing how each fails women and others who resist oppression Reliques of Ancient English Poetry, Consisting of Old Heroic Ballads, Songs ... of Our Earlier Poets (etc.) Thomas Percy,1839 Gender and the Abjection of Blackness Sabine Broeck,2018-05-23 An anti racist critique of gender studies as a field In Gender and the Abjection of Blackness Sabine Broeck argues that gender studies as a mostly white field has taken insufficient account of Black contributions and that more than being an ethnocentric limitation or blind spot this has represented a structural anti Blackness in the field Engaging with the work of Black feminist authors Sylvia Wynter Hortense Spillers and Saidiya Hartman Broeck critiques a selection of canonical white gender studies texts to make this case The book discusses this problem at the core of gender theory as a practice which Broeck terms enslavism the ongoing abjection of Black life which Hartman has called the afterlife of slavery This has become manifest in the repetitive employment of the woman as slave metaphor so central to gender theory as well as in recent theoretical mutations of these anti Black politics of analogy It is the structural separation of Blackness from gender that has functioned over and over again as the scaffold enabling white women's struggles for successful recognition of equality and subjectivity in the human world as we know it This book challenges white readers to rethink their own untroubled identification with gender theory and it provides all readers with a white feminist theorist's sophisticated theoretical and self-critical scholarly account of her own reckoning with and learning in dialogue from Black feminism's critique Broeck draws on a wide range of experience to provide a frame for rethinking gender as category that can work towards something like Black freedom Most importantly Black theoretical insights in this work move beyond intervention to offer a whole new way of being and the author grapples with the new conceptual terrain she is now occupying Rinaldo Walcott author of Queer Returns Essays on Multiculturalism Diaspora and Black Studies

The Black Eunuchs of the Ottoman Empire George H. Junne, 2016-06-22 The Chief Black Eunuch appointed personally by the Sultan had both the ear of the leader of a vast Islamic Empire and held power over a network of spies and informers including eunuchs and slaves throughout Constantinople and beyond The story of these remarkable individuals who rose from difficult beginnings to become amongst the most powerful people in the Ottoman Empire is rarely told George Junne places their stories in the context of the wider history of African slavery and places them at the centre of Ottoman history The Black Eunuchs of the Ottoman Empire marks a new direction in the study of courtly politics and power in Constantinople
