Running Buildings on Natural Energy Sue Roaf,Fergus Nicol,2018-12-07 New thinking is essential if we are to design and occupy buildings that can keep us safe with unpredictable economies climates energy systems and resource challenges For too long designers have relied on mechanical solutions for heating cooling and ventilating buildings The 21st century dream has to be of a better architecture that enables buildings to be run for as much of a day or year as possible on local clean reliable affordable natural energy Examples are included from different climates where the fundamental building design is right its orientation opening sizes mass and its natural ventilation systems and pathways Many modern buildings are poorly designed for climate as manifested by growing incidences of overheating experienced indoor explored here The inability of many rating systems to record and improve the climatic design of buildings raises questions about how they deal with issues of basic building performance This books points the way towards how we can understand such problems and move forward from over mechanised poorly designed buildings to a new generation of adaptable buildings designed and refurbished to run largely on natural energy and capable of evolving over time to keep their occupants safe and comfortable even in a warming world The chapters were originally published in Architectural Science Review

Discrimination, Vulnerable Consumers and Financial Inclusion Cătălin-Gabriel Stănescu, Asress Adimi Gikay, 2020-12-28 This book addresses the questions of discrimination vulnerable consumers and financial inclusion in the light of the emerging legal socioeconomic and technological challenges New technologies such as artificial intelligence driven consumer credit risk assessment and Fintech platforms the changing nature of vulnerability due to the ongoing COVID 19 pandemic as well as the sophistication of digital technologies which help circumvent legal barriers and protections necessitate the continuous study of the existing legal frameworks and measures that are capable of tackling these challenges Organized in two major parts the first addresses from multiple national angles the idea of a human rights approach to consumer law in order to replace the mantra of economic efficiency that characterizes financial services with those of human dignity and freedom from discrimination and from debt induced servitude The second tackles the challenges posed by increased usage of technology in connection with financial services which tends to solve but also creates additional issues for consumers in general and for vulnerable groups in particular
