Minority protection in Bulgaria Bernd Rechel, 2012-02-27 The protection of minorities in Bulgaria presents a paradox Although minority protection played a prominent role in the accession of the country to the European Union hardly any positive minority rights were adopted in post communist Bulgaria Apart from the reversal of communist assimilation campaigns only limited progress has been made in the area of minority protection Positive minority rights have remained very restricted some minorities notably Pomaks and Macedonians have been denied recognition and the formal adoption of legislation or policy documents has often not been followed by implementation By charting minority rights policies in Bulgaria in the period between 1989 and 2004 this study clarifies the main reasons for the limited progress in the post communist period While in contrast to some other countries in Central and Eastern Europe minority kin states did not play a major role in post communist Bulgaria the European Union and the Council of Europe were instrumental in putting minority questions on the agenda of Bulgarian governments However their impact was smaller than much of the literature on enlargement and conditionality would suggest Domestic factors were crucial in shaping minority rights policies in post communist Bulgaria Of particular importance was the communist legacy which acted as a brake on the development of minority rights
