Kids Across the Spectrums Meryl Alper,2023-08-15 An ethnographic study of diverse children on the autism spectrum and the role of media and technology in their everyday lives In spite of widespread assumptions that young people on the autism spectrum have a natural attraction to technology a premise that leads to significant speculation about how media helps or harms them relatively little research actually exists about their everyday tech use In Kids Across the Spectrums Meryl Alper fills this gap with the first book length ethnography of the digital lives of autistic young people Based on research with more than sixty neurodivergent children from an array of racial ethnic and socioeconomic backgrounds Kids Across the Spectrums delves into three overlapping areas of their media usage cultural belonging social relationships and physical embodiment Alper s work demonstrates that what autistic youth do with technology is not radically different from their non autistic peers However significant social and health inequalities including limited recreational programs unsafe neighborhoods and challenges obtaining appropriate therapeutic services spill over into their media habits With an emphasis on what autistic children bring to media as opposed to what they supposedly lack socially Alper argues that their relationships do not exist outside of how communication technologies affect sociality nor beyond the boundaries of stigmatization and society writ large Finally she offers practical suggestions for the education healthcare and technology sectors to promote equity inclusion access and justice for autistic kids at home at school and in their communities

Schoolwide Collaboration for Transformative Social Emotional Learning Kristy Hill,Abbie Harriman,Amy Grosso,2021-08-05 Schools and libraries can make a difference by teaching kids how to identify and cope with emotions how to communicate with confidence and empathy and how to persevere even when things are difficult The authors of this helpful text define transformative social emotional learning and its impact on students and schools They present current brain research to support social emotional programming in a whole school program with collaborative lesson ideas adaptable to all age levels for the use of counselors librarians administrators classroom teachers and all special area teachers All lessons provide lists of extended student and faculty readings Illustrating and highlighting how social emotional programming helps foster and transform the culture of a school to one of belonging and acceptance the authors also provide necessary application lessons for all educators in all areas of a school including ideas for such common areas as playgrounds cafeterias classrooms and libraries and even ideas for implementation by school administrators Research cited predicts desired outcomes including a culture of belonging increased student engagement and achievement and a more compassionate school staff Ideas and activities provided for professional development for educators benefit students and staff alike
