Ecopolis Paul F. Downton, 2008-11-19 From 2008 for the first time in human history half of the world s population now live in cities Yet despite a wealth of literature on green architecture and planning there is to date no single book which draws together theory from the full range of disciplines from architecture planning and ecology which we must come to grips with if we are to design future cities which are genuinely sustainable Paul Downton's Ecopolis takes a major step along this path. It highlights the urgent need to understand the role of cities as both agents of change and means of survival at a time when climate change has finally grabbed world attention and it provides a framework for designing cities that integrates knowledge both academic and practical from a range of relevant disciplines. Identifying key theorists, practitioners, places and philosophies, the book provides a solid theoretical context which introduces the concept of urban fractals and goes on to present a series of design and planning tools for achieving Sustainable Human Ecological Development (SHED). Combining knowledge from diverse fields to present a synthesis of urban ecology, the book will provide a valuable resource for students, researchers and practitioners in architecture, construction, planning, geography and the traditional life sciences. Entrepreneurial Community Gardens Gail Whiting Feenstra, 1999

Public Space Design Everett Sinclair, 2025-03-04 Public Space Design explores the critical role of communal areas like parks and plazas in shaping vibrant urban environments. It examines how well-designed public spaces foster social interaction and contribute to overall urban quality of life. The book uniquely emphasizes inclusive design, arguing that these spaces should be accessible to everyone regardless of background. Discover how public spaces have evolved from ancient gathering spots to modern urban parks reflecting societal changes and technological advancements. The book progresses from fundamental concepts to practical strategies for creating successful and sustainable communal areas. Case studies of global public spaces illustrate diverse design approaches addressing varying urban contexts. By understanding the historical context, principles of urban design and the importance of community engagement, Public Space Design provides actionable strategies for urban planners, architects and community stakeholders. Ultimately, the book argues that thoughtfully designed public spaces are essential infrastructure supporting social equity, environmental sustainability and economic vitality. It highlights how these spaces should be viewed as more than just amenities but as integral components of healthy and resilient urban communities. Community Gardening as Social Action Claire Nettle, 2016-05-23

There has been a resurgence of community gardening over the past decade with a wide range of actors seeking to get involved from health agencies aiming to increase fruit and vegetable consumption to radical social movements searching for symbols of non-capitalist ways of relating and occupying space. Community gardens have become a focal point for local activism in which people are working to contribute to food security, question the erosion of public space, conserve and improve urban environments, develop technologies of sustainable food production, foster community engagement and create neighbourhood solidarity. Drawing on in-depth case studies and social movement theory, Claire Nettle provides a new empirical and theoretical understanding of community gardening as a site of collective social action. This provides not only a more nuanced and complete understanding of community gardening but also highlights its potential challenges to notions of activism, community democracy and culture. Starting a Community Garden Helen C. Harrison, 1984

A growing number of people across the western world are identifying as nonreligious This book examines this shift through the lens of community gardens We do not ask people what they believe in ways that are abstracted from their everyday lives Rather by focusing on gardening we enter the world of action what people do the practices of their everyday lives Drawing on interviews from community gardeners in Argentina Australia Brazil Canada England Finland Norway Northern Ireland and the United States the book explores themes of community building ritual ethics and relationships with humans non humans and the natural world arguing for their conceptualization as lifestances The book reveals a shifting sensibility about the relationship between humans and the world around them That relationship is shifting from a vertical relationship to a horizontal one from a relationship of human dominance to a relationship of shared responsibility and equality This is possible because there is an increasing recognition that the current hierarchical model based in religious teachings and human exceptionalism is untenable Community gardens offer an ideal vantage point from which to explore these changes
