Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 12 women, 40 to 50 years old, who were sedentary and had no cardiovascular disease. They were randomly assigned to a 12-week training program or a control group. The training program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 30 minutes, of low-intensity aerobic exercise. The control group did not exercise. The HR and EE were measured at rest and during exercise at the beginning and end of the 12-week period. The results showed that the training program had a significant effect on the HR and EE of the women. The HR at rest decreased significantly from 72 to 68 beats per minute, and the HR during exercise decreased significantly from 145 to 135 beats per minute. The EE at rest decreased significantly from 1,200 to 1,100 kcal per day, and the EE during exercise decreased significantly from 1,800 to 1,600 kcal per day. These results suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the cardiovascular fitness of sedentary, middle-aged women.
