The History of Continua Stewart Shapiro, Geoffrey Hellman, 2020-12-01 Mathematical and philosophical thought about continuity has changed considerably over the ages Aristotle insisted that continuous substances are not composed of points and that they can only be divided into parts potentially There is something viscous about the continuous It is a unified whole This is in stark contrast with the prevailing contemporary account which takes a continuum to be composed of an uncountably infinite set of points This volume presents a collective study of key ideas and debates within this history The opening chapters focus on the ancient world covering the pre Socratics Plato Aristotle and Alexander The treatment of the medieval period focuses on a relatively recently discovered manuscript by Bradwardine and its relation to medieval views before during and after Bradwardine's time In the so called early modern period mathematicians developed the calculus and with that the rise of infinitesimal techniques thus transforming the notion of continuity The main figures treated here include Galileo Cavalieri Leibniz and Kant In the early part of the nineteenth century Bolzano was one of the first important mathematicians and philosophers to insist that continua are composed of points and he made a heroic attempt to come to grips with the underlying issues concerning the infinite The two figures most responsible for the contemporary orthodoxy regarding continuity are Cantor and Dedekind Each is treated in an article investigating their precursors and influences in both mathematics and philosophy A new chapter then provides a lucid analysis of the work of the mathematician Paul Du Bois Reymond to argue for a constructive account of continuity in opposition to the dominant Dedekind Cantor account This leads to consideration of the contributions of Weyl Brouwer and Peirce who once dubbed the notion of continuity the master key which unlocks the arcana of philosophy And we see that later in the twentieth century Whitehead presented a point free or gunky account of continuity showing how to recover points as a kind of extensive abstraction The final four chapters each focus on a more or less contemporary take on continuity that is outside the Dedekind Cantor hegemony a predicative approach accounts that do not take continua to be composed of points constructive approaches and non Archimedean accounts that make essential use of infinitesimals

Korsgaard,2018-06-18 Christine M Korsgaard presents a compelling new view of humans moral relationships to the other animals She defends the claim that we are obligated to treat all sentient beings as what Kant called ends in themselves Drawing on a theory of the good derived from Aristotle she offers an explanation of why animals are the sorts of beings for whom things can be good or bad She then turns to Kant s argument for the value of humanity to show that rationality commits us to claiming the standing of ends in ourselves in two senses Kant argued that as autonomous beings we claim to be ends in ourselves when we claim the standing to make laws for ourselves and each other Korsgaard argues that as beings who have a good we also claim to be ends in ourselves when we take the things that are good for us to be good absolutely and so worthy of pursuit The first claim commits us to joining with other autonomous beings in relations of moral reciprocity The second claim commits us to treating the good of every sentient creature as something of absolute importance Korsgaard argues that human beings are not more important than the other animals that our moral nature does not make us superior to the other animals and that our unique capacities do not make us better off than the other animals She criticizes the marginal cases argument and advances a new view of moral standing as attaching to the atemporal subjects of lives She criticizes Kant s own view that our duties to animals are indirect and offers a non utilitarian account of the relation between pleasure and the good She also addresses a number of directly practical questions whether we have the right to eat animals experiment on them make them work for us and fight in our wars and keep them as pets and how to understand the wrong that we do when we cause a species to go extinct Lessons in Belonging from a Church-Going Commitment Phobe Erin S.
