Breaking Point Rebecca Schwartz Greene, 2023-01-03 WINNER SOCIETY FOR MILITARY HISTORY DISTINGUISHED BOOK AWARDS FIRST BOOK This book informs the public for the first time about the impact of American psychiatry on soldiers during World War II Breaking Point is the first in depth history of American psychiatry in World War II Drawn from unpublished primary documents oral histories and the author's personal interviews and correspondence over years with key psychiatric and military policymakers it begins with Franklin Roosevelt's endorsement of a universal Selective Service psychiatric examination followed by Army and Navy pre and post induction examinations Ultimately 2.5 million men and women were rejected or discharged from military service on neuropsychiatric grounds Never before or since has the United States engaged in such a program In designing Selective Service Medical Circular No 1 psychiatrist Harry Stack Sullivan assumed psychiatrists could predict who might break down or falter in military service or even in civilian life thereafter While many American and European psychiatrists questioned this belief and huge numbers of American psychiatric casualties soon raised questions about screening's validity psychiatric and military leaders persisted in 1942 and 1943 in endorsing ever tougher screening and little else Soon families complained of fathers and teens being drafted instead of being identified as psychiatric 4Fs and Blacks and Native Americans among others complained of bias A frustrated General George S Patton famously slapped two malingering neuropsychiatric patients in Sicily a sentiment shared by Marshall and Eisenhower though they favored a tamer style Yet psychiatric rejections evacuations and discharges mounted While psychiatrist Roy Grinker and a few others treated soldiers close to the front in Tunisia in early 1943 this was the exception But as demand for manpower soared and psychiatrists finally went to the field and saw that combat itself not predisposition precipitated breakdown leading military psychiatrists switched their emphasis from screening to prevention and treatment But this switch was too little too late and slowed by a year long series of Inspector General investigations even while numbers of psychiatric casualties soared Ironically despite and even partly because of psychiatrists wartime performance plus the emotional toll of war postwar America soon witnessed a dramatic growth in numbers popularity and influence of the profession culminating in the National Mental Health Act 1946 But veterans with PTSD not recognized until 1980 were largely neglected Impacts of Marine Litter Luisa Galgani, Ricardo Beiras, Francois Galgani, Cristina Panti, Angel Borja, 2019-08-15 The Psychology of School Climate Garry Wade McGiboney, 2016-06-22 Many people have become impatient with school reform and school improvement efforts that fail to include school climate The importance of a positive school climate is emerging in current research not only as an essential component of school reform and school improvement but also as a necessary framework for maintaining excellent schools and providing healthy and safe schools for all students Research strongly suggests that educators and policy makers have a lot to learn about the importance of school climate for school safety and academic success With the growing body of research regarding school climate it is important to study the research and understand how the psychology of school climate and how the elements of school climate can be viewed from a population based perspective as well as understanding the impact of school climate on individual students This review of school climate research includes hundreds of articles and research papers of different perspectives from around the world in numerous cultures School climate is becoming a science of education and psychology that must be studied further in order to understand the dynamic nature of learning environments to identify elements that support or threaten the learning environment and to learn how to improve the conditions for learning in all schools Official Gazette Philippines, 2004
