Gillett, 2009 From the Book's Foreword Long awaited Mary C Gillett's final work The Army Medical Department 1917-1941 complete her four volume study covering the years from 1775 to 1941 Although the Medical Department had improved medical standards and practices because of the latest advances in scientific medicine and was making significant progress toward creating an organizational structure and a supply system able to handle the demands of a conflict of any size its reserves of trained personnel and supplies were seriously inadequate when the nation entered world War I in the spring of 1917 The narrative first describes the struggle of an unprepared department to meet the myriad demands of a war unprecedented size and complexity then follows postwar efforts to meet the needs of the peacetime army during nearly two decades of continental isolationism and budgetary neglect and finally covers the brief period of growing awareness of America's involvement in another major conflict and the intensive preparation efforts that ensued

Shifting Boundaries of Public Health Susan Gross Solomon, Lion Murard, Patrick Zylberman, 2008 European public health was a playing field for deeply contradictory impulses throughout the twentieth century In the 1920s international agencies were established with great fanfare and postwar optimism to serve as the watchtower of health the world over Within less than a decade local level institutions began to emerge as seats of innovation initiative and expertise But there was continual counterpressure from nation states that jealously guarded their policymaking prerogatives in the face of the push for cross national standardization and the emergence of original initiatives from below In contrast to histories of twentieth century public health that focus exclusively on the local national or international levels Shifting Boundaries explores the connections or zones of contact between the three levels The interpretive essays written by distinguished historians of public health and medicine focus on four topics the oscillation between governmental and nongovernmental agencies as sites of responsibility for addressing public health problems the harmonization of nation states agendas with those of international agencies the development by public health experts of knowledge that is both placeless and respectful of place and the transportability of model solutions across borders The volume breaks new ground in its treatment of public health as a political endeavor by highlighting strategies to prevent or alleviate disease as a matter not simply of medical techniques but political values and commitments Contributors Peter Baldwin Iris Borowy James A Gillespie Graham Mooney Lion Murard Dorothy Porter Sabine Schleiermacher Susan Gross Solomon Paul Weindling and Patrick Zylberman Susan Gross Solomon is professor of political science at the University of Toronto Lion Murard and Patrick Zylberman are both senior researchers at CERMES Centre de Recherche M decine Sciences Sant et Soci t CNRS EHESS INSERM Paris
