Constitutive Models for Rubber X Alexander Lion, Michael Jöhlitz, 2017-08-15 In order to develop innovative products to reduce development costs and the number of prototypes and to accelerate development processes numerical simulations become more and more attractive As such numerical simulations are instrumental in understanding complicated material properties like chemical ageing crack propagation or the strain and temperature induced crystallisation of rubber Therefore experimentally validated and physically meaningful constitutive models are indispensable Elastomers are used for products like tyres engine and suspension mounts or seals to name a few The interest in modelling the quasi static stress strain behaviour was dominant in the past decades but nowadays the interests also include influences of environmental conditions The latest developments on the material behaviour of elastomers are collected in the present volume Constitutive Models for Rubber X is a comprehensive compilation of nearly all oral and poster contributions to the European Conference on Constitutive Models for Rubber Munich 28-31 August 2017 The 95 highly topical contributions reflect the state of the art in material modelling and testing of elastomers They cover the fields of material testing and processing filler reinforcement electromagnetic sensitive elastomers dynamic properties constitutive modelling micromechanics finite element implementation stress softening chemical ageing fatigue and durability In the area of rubbery materials and structures applied research will play an important role also in the coming decades Constitutive Models for Rubber X is of interest to developers and researchers involved in the rubber processing and CAE software industries as well as for academics in nearly all disciplines of engineering and material sciences Theory-Based Data Analysis for the Social Sciences Carol S. Aneshensel, 2012-12-11 This book presents the elaboration model for the multivariate analysis of observational quantitative data This model entails the systematic introduction of third variables to the analysis of a focal relationship between one independent and one dependent variable to ascertain whether an inference of causality is justified Two complementary strategies are used an exclusionary strategy that rules out alternative explanations such as spuriousness and redundancy with competing theories and an inclusive strategy that connects the focal relationship to a network of other relationships including the hypothesized causal mechanisms linking the focal independent variable to the focal dependent variable The primary emphasis is on the translation of theory into a logical analytic strategy and the interpretation of results The elaboration model is applied with case studies drawn from newly published research that serve as prototypes for aligning theory and the data analytic plan used to test it these studies are drawn from a wide range of substantive topics in the social sciences such as emotion management in the workplace subjective age identification during the transition to adulthood and the relationship between religious and paranormal beliefs The second application of the elaboration model is in the form of original data analysis presented in two Analysis Journals that are integrated throughout the text and implement the full elaboration model Using real data not contrived examples the text provides a step by step guide through the process of integrating theory with data analysis in order to arrive at meaningful answers to research questions
