

Action Research for Professional Development

What is action research?

Action research is a term which refers to a practical way of looking at your own work to check that it is as you would like it to be. Because action research is done by you, the practitioner, it is often referred to as practitioner based research; and because it involves you thinking about and reflecting on your work, it can also be called a form of self-reflective practice.

The idea of self reflection is central. In traditional forms of research – empirical research – researchers do research on other people. In action research, researchers do research on themselves. Empirical researchers enquire into other people's lives. Action researchers enquire into their own. Action research is an enquiry conducted by the self into the self. You, a practitioner, think about your own life and work, and this involves you asking yourself why you do the things that you do, and why you are the way that you are. When you produce your research report, it shows how you have carried out a systematic investigation into your own behaviour, and the reasons for that behaviour. The report shows the process you have gone through in order to achieve a better understanding of yourself, so that you can continue developing yourself and your work.

Action research is open ended. It does not begin with a fixed hypothesis. It begins with an idea that you develop. The research process is the developmental process of following through the idea, seeing how it goes, and continually checking whether it is in line with what you wish to happen. Seen in this way, action research is a form of self evaluation. It is used widely in professional contexts such as appraisal, mentoring and self assessment.

Action Research from Concept to Presentation: a Practical Handbook to Writing Your Master's Thesis Peter K. Lynch, Ryan C. Welch, 2014-07-03 Perhaps the most daunting graduate school requirement is the development of an action research Masters thesis This capstone task requires unprecedented amounts of time energy and verbiage Designed to take stress out of the thesis writing equation this student friendly comprehensive handbook glides the reader through a 28 step process from developing a focal topic to defending a scholarly thesis Framing each chapter as a one week action assignment the authors have broken down the process into manageable chunks to enable students writers to achieve an immediate sense of completion at every step By using this scaffolding approach the the authors encourage the student researcher to focus on one part of the process rather than the total sometimes overwhelming final product With the exception of the Review of the Literature section which takes several weeks to complete all other thesis sections can and should be timed out for seven days The Authors primary objective was to empower the student researcher to accomplish each of the steps in the process while never losing sight on the product that will help the children in their classrooms Whether developing an Abstract or writing in text citations student researchers are guided throughout the nuances of the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Associations 6th Edition

Action Research into Teaching English in Russia's Professional Context Natalia A. Gunina, 2015-10-13 This book is a result of the investigative attempts of linguistics professionals to identify and meet the challenges of developing communicative competence in future engineers economists and other such specialists The unifying feature of all the contributions brought together here is the active involvement of the authors in practical instruction of English for specific professional purposes at the tertiary bachelors and masters programs level in Russia This volume covers a number of relevant areas in this field including new developments in methodology approaches to course and materials design and the contribution of language theory to foreign language teaching in a professional context The unique teaching approach advocated in this book denounces the traditional practice of transferring classical methodology of communicative oriented teaching to language classes for students with a non linguistic or non teaching professional orientation The underlying idea of this volume is that a change in professional context implies a change in language teaching methodology including materials techniques and target competences The ideas and experiences analysed here will appeal to anyone interested in the current trends in foreign language teaching and learning and particularly to educationalists
