Exploring SharePoint Foundation 2013 and the Team site

SharePoint Foundation 2013 allows users to share documents and other business information, as well as collaborate with others. This functionality is accessible through a comprehensive web-based interface. The default SharePoint interface is based on the team site template, described as a place to work together with a group of people. SharePoint's collaboration and communication services are designed to work seamlessly with Microsoft Office applications. Currently, SharePoint has strongly integrated the following documents, lists, pages, or mobile applications, including: Outlook, OneDrive, Lync, and Windows Phone 8.1. For additional information, see "SharePoint Foundation 2013 Overview" on page 2 for additional information.

- To go to the Home page, click the Home link in the Quick Launch pane, the top navigation pane, or the site logo.
- Click on the left side of the site to go directly to the selected page.
- Click on the right side of the site to go directly to the selected page, or to go directly to the selected page, or to go directly to the selected page.
