 - It is the force exerted by an object on the Earth's surface.
 - It is the force exerted by the Earth on an object.
- 1.4 The vector of an object...
- is the same as the object's weight.
 - is the same as the object's mass.
 - is the same as the object's acceleration.
 - is the same as the object's velocity.
- 1.5 An object has a weight W on Earth. What happens to the value of the weight if the object is moved to a planet where the acceleration due to gravity is half of the acceleration due to gravity on Earth?

vector of the object

- It is the same as the object's weight.
 - It is the same as the object's mass.
 - It is the same as the object's acceleration.
 - It is the same as the object's velocity.
- 1.6 A force of 100 N is applied to an object of mass 10 kg. What is the acceleration of the object?
- 10 m/s²
 - 1 m/s²
 - 100 m/s²
 - 1000 m/s²

QUESTION 2

The grade 11 learners have had time to work from one way to determine the resultant of two vectors. One way is the component method. They want to use the vector to find the resultant of the two vectors in a triangle by the tip-to-tail method. The learners' strategy is shown below.

- The vector A is drawn first.
- The vector B is drawn from the tip of A.
- The vector C is drawn from the tip of B.
- The vector D is drawn from the tip of C.

Which of the following is true?

- The vector A is drawn first.
 - The vector B is drawn from the tip of A.
 - The vector C is drawn from the tip of B.
 - The vector D is drawn from the tip of C.
- 1.7 The vector A is drawn first.
- The vector B is drawn from the tip of A.
 - The vector C is drawn from the tip of B.
 - The vector D is drawn from the tip of C.
 - The vector E is drawn from the tip of D.

Part I focuses on the foundational knowledge needed for teaching health and physical education. It addresses the health risk behaviors of today's generation of students, a team approach to coordinated school health, how physical growth and brain development in children are related to health, and the many characteristics and benefits of a high quality physical education program. Part II emphasizes the strategies necessary for incorporating health, physical education, and physical activity into the curriculum and school day. It discusses how teachers can become advocates of healthy and active schools, identify habits that promote everyday health in the classroom, and incorporate physical activity and the national standards into each school day. It also presents teaching methods, assessment tools, and evaluation strategies to ensure teaching success. Throughout this book, practicing and training teachers will find websites, tips for best practices, sample lesson plans, and tables with innovative strategies. The result is a great resource that teachers can use to fulfill what is both a tremendous responsibility and a unique opportunity: promoting health and wellness in the elementary classroom using an integrated approach.

POGIL Shawn R. Simonson, 2023-07-03

Process Oriented Guided Inquiry Learning (POGIL) is a pedagogy that is based on research on how people learn and has been shown to lead to better student outcomes in many contexts and in a variety of academic disciplines. Beyond facilitating students' mastery of a discipline, it promotes vital educational outcomes such as communication skills and critical thinking. Its active international community of practitioners provides accessible educational development and support for anyone developing related courses. Having started as a process developed by a group of chemistry professors focused on helping their students better grasp the concepts of general chemistry, The POGIL Project has grown into a dynamic organization of committed instructors who help each other transform classrooms and improve student success, develop curricular materials to assist this process, conduct research expanding what is known about learning and teaching, and provide professional development and collegiality from elementary teachers to college professors. As a pedagogy, it has been shown to be effective in a variety of content areas and at different educational levels. This is an introduction to the process and the community. Every POGIL classroom is different and is a reflection of the uniqueness of the particular context: the institution, department, physical space, student body, and instructor, but follows a common structure in which students work cooperatively in self-managed small groups of three or four. The group work is focused on activities that are carefully designed and scaffolded to enable students to develop important concepts or to deepen and refine their understanding of those ideas or concepts for themselves, based entirely on data provided in class, not on prior reading of the textbook or other introduction to the topic. The learning environment is structured to support the development of process skills such as teamwork, effective communication, information processing, problem solving, and critical thinking. The instructor's role is to facilitate the development of student concepts and process skills, not to simply deliver content to the students. The first part of this book introduces the theoretical and philosophical foundations of POGIL pedagogy and summarizes the literature demonstrating its efficacy. The second part of the book focusses on implementing POGIL, covering the formation and effective management of student teams offering guidance on the selection and writing of POGIL activities as well as on facilitation teaching large classes and assessment The book concludes with examples of implementation in STEM and non STEM disciplines as well as guidance on how to get started Appendices provide additional resources and information about The POGIL Project
