

Deforestation

To understand the damage being caused to rainforests billions of trees were destroyed. This is about the same as ten highly detailed A4 sheets of paper. That if we carry on like this rainforests will be lost in less than 100 years.

Why is the rainforest being destroyed?

The rainforests are being destroyed to allow different plants for farming, to allow roads to be built for their wood (for fuel even firewood), to make way for new settlements or roads, to allow people to mine for coal or diamonds being underneath.

Farming: areas of the rainforests are cleared to allow farmers to farm their produce to sell it. Cattle are raised for their meat, this is the highest cause of deforestation through farming. Farmers also grow bananas, cocoa beans, coffee, oil palm trees, sugar cane and tea. These can make a lot of money for the farmers but destroy huge areas of the rainforest.

Logging: this makes up 14% of all deforestation. Trees are cut down and used to build furniture or houses, or used to make paper.

Mining: when mining is done in areas of the rainforest, to extract the mineral people who still live there, however, this doesn't stop it from happening completely and it can cause conflict.

Huge amounts of rainforest are cleared each year. It is estimated that 20% of the Amazon rainforest has been cleared already.

You want to buy some peanut butter. The peanut butter without palm oil is £1 more expensive, should you buy it?

You are a coffee bean farmer, you could clear some land in the rainforest and have twice the space you have now.

You are a luxury hotel owner. Should you clear an area the size of Wembley football stadium to build a huge new
