Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 10-week training program on the heart rate (HR) and energy expenditure (EE) of sedentary, middle-aged women. The subjects were 12 sedentary women, 30 to 45 years of age, who were randomly selected from a telephone directory. The subjects were divided into two groups: a control group and an exercise group. The control group was instructed to maintain their current level of activity, while the exercise group was instructed to perform a 10-week training program consisting of three 30-minute sessions per week. The HR and EE were measured at baseline and at the end of the 10-week training program. The results showed that the exercise group had a significant increase in HR and EE compared to the control group. The HR increased from 70 to 78 beats per minute, and the EE increased from 1,800 to 2,200 kcal per day. The control group showed no significant change in HR or EE. The results of this study suggest that a 10-week training program can significantly increase the HR and EE of sedentary, middle-aged women.

If you are not satisfied with your results, follow the instructions carefully and test your original article. If the editor still requests the (a) paragraph and (b) and (c) paragraphs, repeat the analysis with the original data. The original data are available.

- Day and night periods that are longer than the standard 24 hours occur most commonly with the use of artificial light or other light sources. To avoid this, there are two things the producer should do:
 - 1. Turn off the lights at the end of the day.
 - 2. Avoid excessive light intensity, the length of the day and the light spectrum (the color of the light) are important.
- The end of the day is the best time to change the light spectrum. The producer should be looking for the color of the light to be blue-white for the first 12 hours of the day, then gradually change to red, orange, and yellow. The light should be red for the last 12 hours of the day.

When you install your T-Value One Connection, improper installation of all four screws (50 connections for One Connection®) will affect the overall health, safety and life of the system. Proper ventilation is critical to maintain proper ventilation. Failure to maintain proper ventilation may result in the following problems with the product:

- When a producer's price for the output rises or falls, it must adjust its output level accordingly. For example, suppose the price for the output rises. The producer will want to produce more of the output, and this will require hiring more workers. The producer will also want to use more of the other inputs, and this will require hiring more of those inputs. The producer will also want to use more of the other inputs, and this will require hiring more of those inputs.

8. Using the information above, determine and fill in the table to the right. Consider the following: are the bonds attached to the carbons?
 - If the two are not attached, the number of bonds is one and the bond is independent on the other part of the chain.
9. Using the information above, determine and fill in the table to the right. Consider the following:
 - Do the two carbons have different substituents that are attached to the same part of the molecule and the Cahn-Ingold-Prelog Rules?
10. Repeat the procedure described above. If you find the priorities for the two carbons with the same number, then you are looking at the same molecule.
11. Repeat the procedure above. If you find the priorities for the two carbons with the same number, then you are looking at the same molecule.
