Welsh Americans Ronald L. Lewis,2009-06-01 In 1890 more than 100 000 Welsh born immigrants resided in the United States A majority of them were skilled laborers from the coal mines of Wales who had been recruited by American mining companies Readily accepted by American society Welsh immigrants experienced a unique process of acculturation In the first history of this exceptional community Ronald Lewis explores how Welsh immigrants made a significant contribution to the development of the American coal industry and how their rapid and successful assimilation affected Welsh American culture Lewis describes how Welsh immigrants brought their national churches fraternal orders and societies love of literature and music and most important their own language Yet unlike eastern and southern Europeans and the Irish the Welsh even with their foreign ways encountered no apparent hostility from the Americans Often within a single generation Welsh cultural institutions would begin to fade and a new Welsh American identity developed True to the perspective of the Welsh themselves Lewis s analysis adopts a transnational view of immigration examining the maintenance of Welsh coal mining culture in the United States and in Wales By focusing on Welsh coal miners Welsh Americans illuminates how Americanization occurred among a distinct group of skilled immigrants and demonstrates the diversity of the labor migrations to a rapidly industrializing America The Encyclopaedic Dictionary

Covenant and the Metaphor of Divine Marriage in Biblical Thought Sebastian R. Smolarz, 2010-10-14 In his commentary on Hosea H W Wolff proposed that the divine marriage metaphor is the central metaphor of the entire OT In Hebrew prophetic books the metaphor reflected the covenantal relationship between Yahweh and his people No other metaphor reached as deeply into the heart of this relationship or better described the tragedy of a broken relationship between Yahweh and his people No other metaphor expressed more fully the abundance of God's grace shown in the promise of covenant restoration and renewal in the eschaton In this volume Polish Reformed academic Sebastian Smolarz demonstrates that the divine marriage metaphor is also one of the leading NT metaphors used to describe God's restored covenant relationship with his people especially in the Book of Revelation Smolarz argues for continuity between OT and NT concepts and theologies in general and for continuity between the Apocalypse and OT material in particular showing that the Apocalypse has much in common with other parts of the NT In doing so he focuses on some Gospel parables and reads them against their OT background He also examines instances of the divine marriage metaphor in Paul's theological reflections The focus of Smolarz's volume is a covenantal reading of the Apocalypse He argues that the metaphor helps to establish the Apocalypse's Sitz im Leben which he relates to the main conflict between the faithful and the unfaithful within the people of God in the first century CE His work establishes that the Apocalypse contains not only explicit instances but also implicit references and many echoes of this covenantal metaphor
