Outcomes for children		Good	2

Summary of key findings for parents

This provision is good

- Children form close, wonderful relationships with the childminder and her assistants. Strong friendships are evident across all age groups. Older children are very considerate of the younger ones in all activities. Behaviour is excellent.
- The childminder accurately monitors and assesses children's learning. She tracks children's development and identifies where there are any gaps in their learning. The childminder carefully plans what children need to learn next, to help them make good progress.
- Children are offered extensive daily opportunities for exercise and fresh air. They eagerly enjoy outdoor activities that the childminder offers, which involve exploring farms and local areas. Children delight in assisting a volunteer group to clear litter at the local park.
- Partnerships between the childminder and her assistants are strong. They work well together, which enables them to provide an organised learning environment for children to thrive in.
- The childminder has not fully explored ways to build continually on the quality of practice for her and her assistants, to develop an expert knowledge of teaching.
- The childminder does not work as successfully as possible with other settings that children currently attend, to fully support children's care and learning.

Countering Extremism in British Schools? John Holmwood, Therese O'Toole, 2018 In 2014 the Trojan Horse affair an alleged plot to Islamify several state schools in Birmingham caused a previously highly successful school to be vilified Holmwood and O Toole challenge the accepted narrative and show how it was used to justify an intrusive counter extremism agenda

Evidence-Informed Policy and Practice in Education Chris Brown, 2014-12-18 Evidence use is now part of the rhetoric of educational research policy and practice Grounded in the contention that using evidence can help educationalists develop better solutions to the key issues facing teaching and learning today Chris Brown seeks to develop a complex rich and socially situated framework to aid researchers practitioners and policy makers to better understand how evidence informed policy and practice can be successfully conceived and enacted In Evidence Informed Policy and Practice in Education Brown journeys through his past empirical work while also employing the ideas of a number of key social theorists and philosophers including Baudrillard Eco Flybjerg Kant and Aristotle in order to give research on evidence use a more rigorous conceptual underpinning Examining and critiquing evidence use both by schools and government and critically engaging with topics as wide ranging as consumption and rationality Brown concludes by setting out an overarching model of evidence informed policy and practice In doing so he also provides a compelling vision for the future role of researchers both within this model and for the promotion of evidence generally

Leading Schools in Challenging Circumstances Philip

Smith, Les Bell, 2014-01-16 The leadership of schools can make a significant difference to enhancing the life chances of students in schools and enabling them to succeed This book examines leadership within schools focusing on securing success within a challenging social and political environment It explores the approaches to leadership adopted by four successful secondary school headteachers in a local authority situated in an area of high social deprivation and identifies the impact the headteachers of these schools have on staff students and community It analyses the key leadership strategies of these successful school leaders strategies that can be deployed in all schools and explores the links between leadership theories and leadership actions The book goes on to examine how these strategies were actually implemented in a failing school in challenging circumstances and shows how other schools might benefit from such strategies and the insights on which they are based

Fortin's Children's Rights and the Developing Law Rachel E. Taylor, 2024-02-29 The notion that children constitute an important group of rights holders has gained increasing acceptance both domestically and internationally Nevertheless this rhetorical commitment to children's rights is not necessarily realised in practice Now in its fourth edition Fortin's Children's Rights and the Developing Law explores the extent to which law and policy in England promotes or undermines the rights of children Fully revised and updated this textbook uses current research on child development and welfare to reflect on the extent to which the law fulfils children's rights in a wide range of areas including medical law education and child poverty These developments are measured against the domestic law and the UK's international obligations under for example the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child

Girlhood, Schools, and Media Michele Paule, 2016-09-13 This book explores the circulation and reception of popular discourses of achieving girlhood and the ways in which girls themselves participate in such circulation It examines the figure of the achieving girl within wider discourses of neoliberal self management and post feminist possibility considering the tensions involved in being both successful and successfully feminine and the strategies and negotiations girls undertake to manage these tensions The work is grounded in an understanding of media educational and peer contexts for the production of the successful girl It traces narratives across school television and online in texts produced for and by girls drawing on interviews with girls in schools online forum participation within the purpose built site www.smartgirls.tv and girls discussions of a range of teen dramas

Behaviour and discipline in schools Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Education Committee, 2011-02-03 Poor and disruptive behaviour in the classroom reduces children's ability to concentrate and absorb information and it unsettles children and causes immense stress for teachers Persistent poor behaviour in schools can have far reaching and damaging consequences for children and can limit their horizons this is not a problem to be ignored The Department for Education should collect sample data on all serious incidents in schools complemented with survey data from teachers pupils parents and carers to allow assessment of the state of behaviour in schools A good school behaviour policy agreed and communicated to all staff governors pupils parents and carers consistently applied is the basis of an effective approach to managing behaviour The Committee supports proposals to give clearer emphasis on leading and supporting staff in maintaining and improving standards of behaviour in schools Schools should also be proactive in establishing relationships with parents and carers on behavioural matters There are various practical techniques for managing behaviour effectively but these are poorly disseminated The forthcoming Green Paper on special educational needs and disability should cover the links between special educational needs and behaviour The Committee supports the retention of independent appeals panels for exclusions There are though serious concerns over provision of educational psychology services and access to Child and Adolescent Mental Health Services CAMHS The Government should consider passing the responsibility for budgets and commissioning of all children s community health services including mental health services and speech language and communications needs specialist services to local authorities

Education for All Richard Pring, Geoffrey Hayward, Ann Hodgson, Jill Johnson, Ewart Keep, Alis Oancea, Gareth Rees, Ken Spours, Stephanie Wilde, 2012-08-21 There are two key questions at the heart of the ongoing debate about education and training for all young people irrespective of background ability or attainment What counts as an educated 19 year old today Are the models of education we have inherited from the past sufficient to meet the needs of all young people as well as the social and economic needs of the wider community Education for All addresses these questions in the light of evidence collected over five years by the Nuffield Review of 14 19 Education and Training the most rigorous investigation of every aspect of this key educational phase for decades Written by the co directors of the Nuffield Review Education for All provides a critical comprehensive and thoroughly readable overview of 14 19 education and training and makes suggestions for the kind of education and training that should be provided over the coming decade and beyond The authors acknowledge that much has been achieved by the respective governments massive investment in resources closer collaboration between schools colleges training providers voluntary agencies and employers recognition and promotion of a wider range of qualifications They are also optimistic about the good things that are going on in many secondary classrooms enormous amounts of creativity courageous efforts to meet problems a deep concern and caring for many young people otherwise deprived of hope and opportunity But they argue for a radical reshaping of the future in the light of a broader vision of education a greater respect for more practical and active learning a system of assessment which supports rather than impoverishes learning respect for the professional expertise of the teacher a more unified system of qualifications ensuring progression into higher education and employment the creation of strongly collaborative and local learning systems and a more reflective and participative approach to policy Education for All should be read by everyone working in or with an interest in secondary level education in England and Wales and beyond
