Unstable atoms, such as uranium (U), eventually change into stable atoms, such as lead (Pb). The original version is called a parent atom (or isotope), and the new version is called a daughter atom.

When scientists date rocks, they don't actually observe the atoms changing. They measure the products of the change, which they assume took place in the past. But what if they are wrong about their assumptions?

ASSUMPTION 1: The original number of unstable atoms can be known. Scientists assume how many unstable (parent) atoms existed at the beginning based on how many parent and daughter atoms are left today.

ASSUMPTION 2: The rate of change was constant. Scientists assume that radioactive atoms have changed at the same rate throughout time, ignoring the impact of Creation or changes during Noah's Flood.

ASSUMPTION 3: The daughter atoms were all produced by radioactive decay. Scientists assume that no outside forces, such as flowing groundwater, contaminated the sample.
