for film has only relatively recently received the critical attention which it merits. Many composers in the twentieth century have written works for films or documentaries, a number feeling that this aspect of their output has been undervalued. This dictionary complements other studies which have appeared in recent years which look at the technical and theoretical issues concerned with film music composition. Arranged alphabetically by composer, the volume comprises over 500 entries covering all nationalities. Each entry includes very brief biographical information on the composer followed by a list of the films with dates for which he or she has composed. Details of recordings are also given. The dictionary's international coverage ensures that it will become a standard reference work for all those interested in the history of twentieth century music and the development of film.

Beyond Casablanca Mohamed Abderrahman Tazi, Kevin Dwyer, 2004-11-25. In Beyond Casablanca Kevin Dwyer explores the problems of creativity in the Arab and African world, focusing on Moroccan cinema and one of its key figures, filmmaker M. A. Tazi. Dwyer develops three themes simultaneously: the filmmaker's career and films; filmmaking in postcolonial Morocco; and the relationship between Moroccan cinema, Third World and Arab cinema, and the global film industry. This compelling discussion of Moroccan cinema is founded upon decades of anthropological research in Morocco, most recently on the Moroccan film sector and the global film industry, and exhibits a sensitivity to the cultural, political, social, and economic context of creative activity. The book centers on a series of interviews conducted with Tazi, whose career provides a rich commentary on the world of Moroccan cinema and on Moroccan cinema in the world. The interviews are framed variously by presentations of Moroccan history, society, and culture; the role of foreign filmmakers in Morocco; thematic discussions of cinematic issues such as narrative techniques, the use of symbols, film as an expression of identity, and problems of censorship; and the global context of Third World filmmaking.

Frantz Fanon David Macey, 2012-11-13. Born in Martinique, Frantz Fanon (1925-61) trained as a psychiatrist in Lyon before taking up a post in colonial Algeria. He had already experienced racism as a volunteer in the Free French Army in which he saw combat at the end of the Second World War. In Algeria, Fanon came into contact with the Front de Libération Nationale, whose ruthless struggle for independence was met with exceptional violence from the French forces. He identified closely with the liberation movement and his political sympathies eventually forced him out of the country, whereupon he became a propagandist and ambassador for the FLN, as well as a seminal anticolonial theorist. David Macey's eloquent life of Fanon provides a comprehensive account of a complex individual's personal, intellectual, and political development. It is also a richly detailed depiction of postwar French culture. Fanon is revealed as a flawed and passionate humanist, deeply committed to eradicating colonialism. Now updated with new historical material, Frantz Fanon remains the definitive biography of a truly revolutionary thinker.

Arab Modernism as World Cinema Peter Limbrick, 2020-03-10. Arab Modernism as World Cinema explores the radically beautiful films of Moroccan filmmaker Moumen Smihi, demonstrating the importance of Moroccan and Arab film cultures in histories of world cinema. Addressing the legacy of the Nahda or Arab Renaissance of the nineteenth and early twentieth century, when Arab writers and artists reenergized Arab culture by engaging with other languages and societies Peter Limbrick argues that Smihi's films take up the spirit of the Nahda for a new age Examining Smihi's oeuvre which enacts an exchange of images and ideas between Arab and non Arab cultures Limbrick rethinks the relation of Arab cinema to modernism and further engages debates about the use of modernist forms by filmmakers in the Global South This original study offers new routes for thinking about world cinema and modernism in the Middle East and North Africa and about Arab cinema in the world

Frantz Fanon, Psychiatry and Politics Nigel C. Gibson, Roberto Beneduce, 2017-09-25 The revolutionary and psychiatrist Frantz Fanon was a foundational figure in postcolonial and decolonial thought and practice yet his psychiatric work still has only been studied peripherally That is in part because most of his psychiatric writings have remained untranslated With a focus on Fanon's key psychiatry texts Frantz Fanon Psychiatry and Politics considers Fanon's psychiatric writings as materials anticipating as well as accompanying Fanon's better known work written between 1952 and 1961 Black Skin White Masks A Dying Colonialism Toward the African Revolution The Wretched of the Earth Both clinical and political they draw on another notion of psychiatry that intersects history ethnology philosophy and psychoanalysis The authors argue that Fanon's work inaugurates a critical ethnopsychiatry based on a new concept of culture anchored to historical events particular situations and lived experience and on the relationship between the psychological and the cultural Thus Gibson and Beneduce contend that Fanon's psychiatric writings also express Fanon's wish as he puts it in The Wretched of the Earth to develop a new way of thinking not only for us but for humanity Georges Auric Colin Roust, 2020-04-01 The first English language biography of this major French film composer George Auric A Life in Music and Politics examines not only the impact of Auric's leftist politics on his work but also the myriad roles he held outside of film composition including but not limited to music critic opera director and arts administrator *Histoire de Sablé.
