Research Paper: Self Esteem

As human beings, we strive to feel whole. This drive is rooted inside the biology of the brain, but equally shaped by our parents, peers, and society. Our sense of self-esteem affects the way we navigate through life and gain success. It can either enhance our physical and emotional well-being, or have a negative and lasting influence. The amount of conflict we experience, our decision making opportunities, and autonomy all factor into how we see ourselves. Living inside these ever-changing physical bodies, we try to make sense of the world around us. The people, situations, and institutions we encounter can sometimes feel overwhelming. Some of us seek escape and/or distraction or fall into chemical dependency, morbidity, and/or suicidal ideation. This is often established during childhood and adolescence, and can extend into one's adult life.

According to modern neuroscience, there are several neurotransmitters which play a central role in mood and belief. The brain perceives our reality and transforms it into a range of personal, ethical, and creative premises that we use to provide meaning, value, spirituality, and truth in our lives (Bear). As human beings, we construct beliefs about everything. We attempt to determine how we feel about our 'perceived' realities, and then proceed to build moral, political, and spiritual beliefs about the world around us. There are several studies which suggest that brain regions and neurotransmitters are responsible for deciding how we choose one idea over another (Panksepp 533). These beliefs allow us to affix meaning to the mysteries of life, and provide us with a unique sense of inspiration, and hope.

Certain beliefs take root during specific periods of brain development. In order to undo these beliefs, the brain must exercise plasticity. Doxastic Voluntarism explains that mentally healthy people can change their minds about their beliefs. As we get older, this plasticity is less active, but still exists. If we continue to think critically and strive for rationality, we can continue to make new neural connections and build stronger synaptic bonds (Audi 98). In a recent study at UCLA hospital, a man who was riddled with cancer, and about to die, was given injections of a placebo. Within a week all his tumors disappeared. But, upon reading a newspaper report about the ineffectiveness of what he thought he'd been given, his tumors returned. The doctor then convinced the patient that a "new and improved" medication was administered to him instead and once again his tumors disappeared (Etelson).

It's easy to get caught up in today's social media-centric society. It's complex nature resembles the makeup of the human brain. We're networked together, teaching one another how we'd like to be treated by the ways we treat others. Self worth can become closely intertwined with how we see ourselves in relation to others. There are many who suffer from

Research Timothy J. Owens, Sheldon Stryker, Norman Goodman, 2006-11-02 Self esteem is an academic and popular phenomenon vigorously researched and debated sometimes imbued with magical qualities other times vilified as the bane of the West's preoccupation with self Though thousands of articles have been devoted to the topic and bookshops work to feed the public's appetite for advice on revealing enhancing and maintaining self esteem conflicting claims and findings have placed the field in disarray In a very real sense self esteem is a victim of its own popularity This book seeks to add clarity to a concept earlier examined by such notable self theorists as Morris Rosenberg but eminently worthy of re examination and extension We do this by asking some leading thinkers on self esteem theory measurement and application to assess what we know about self esteem and link it to important aspects of society and the human experience 'Critical Reflections in Literary Research': A Compendium of Research Papers Kamalakhar Baburao Gaikwad, 2025-09-20 The title of this academic book is Critical Reflections in Literary Research It is mainly written for the research scholars teachers and literature readers It covers the topics which cultivate their interest and overall insights about the literary research The papers compiled in this book represent the fruitful and stimulating conversations Its main objective is to acquaint the readers about the pioneering fictional perceptions of the English literature This book is a timely collection of research papers on English literature that brings together a diverse assortment of scholarly contributions which explores complex intersections The most captivating characteristic of this book is its capacity to bridge seemingly incongruent disciplines Each research paper offers a fresh perspective a unique insight and its relationship with broader societal issues Each paper demonstrates the relevance and richness of literature as a field of academic enquiry These papers represent a unique exploration of how literature engages with societal issues such as association of law and literature cinema and literature third gender people and religion thematic significance of Raja Rao's Kanthapura and Annabhau Sathe's Fakira a brief review of Henry Fielding's works Bhavik Sarkhedi and Suhana Bhambhani's views on existential crisis Arun Joshi's perspectives on existentialism Aristotle's concept of tragedy caste discrimination and east west encounter in R K Narayan's fiction and a critical study of post modern Indian English Dramatists The book also comprises with the research papers which highlight on true happiness in Oscar Wilde's novels Dr Ambedkar's opinions on education ecclesiastical intuitions in Graham Greene significance of values and mannerism through J C Hill's work Narayana Murthy's need for excellence need of translation through Mahesh Elkunchwar's novel association of education and religion traits of protagonists pseudo zeal of worshippers racism womanism and marginalization of black women caste culture and politics reflected in dalit literature the role of recent trends in shaping modern Indian English literature quality of mercy blending of mock epic irony and fantasy and the portrayal of emancipated and new woman in Namita Gokhale's novel alienation in Toni Morrison and Alice Walker's novels Religious Pluralism in Swami Vivekananda's work mistaken legalistic validation in Joseph Heller's work and women images through Sylvia Plath's Mirror The Modern Review Ramananda Chatterjee, 1917 Includes section Reviews and notices of books Research in
