

Reflection Paper: Self-Assessment of Learning

3 pages | 733 words

Before entering college, I never took the time to self reflect on my actions as much as I should have. Over the years, I noticed that I tend to be my biggest critic. I judge everything I do both inside and outside of the classroom very harshly. Many people suggest that I should not be so hard on myself. The more I reflect on myself, the more I learn about my beliefs and skills. I believe this is a strength because I am learning more about myself and my self-development as a future counselor. Throughout this paper, I will reflect on my self-awareness when it comes to learning different counseling techniques as well as critiquing my skill development.

Self-Awareness

During a class discussion, we went over a scenario where a client was expressing having an affair with a co-worker who is married and has a child. When we were going over this particular scenario I became self-aware on how bias I am toward cheating on your significant other. If I have a future client who shares that they are cheating on their significant other, I do not want to judge them based on my beliefs. I want to help them to the best of my ability despite what I think is right or wrong. If I have a client who shares that their significant other is cheating on them, I do not want to make it seem like I am taking their side because of my beliefs. Noticing that I am biased toward cheating has impacted my learning because I will begin to look for different techniques that will benefit the way I help my client. Helping my clients overcome what they are going through entails me to be very open-minded and say what is right for my client and their situation, not dependent on my personal beliefs. During a role-playing session, I became self-aware that I need to work on using other techniques during a counseling session. I noticed during role-play, I mainly reflect on my client's feelings. Reflecting on my clients feeling is not a bad technique, but I want to expand my techniques. I want to ask more open-ended questions, use more door openers, minimal encouragers, etc. During class I learned open-ended questions and door openers can encourage my client to expand on how they are feeling. Therefore, this will give me a better understanding of where my client is coming from and how my client is feeling. I also learned that using minimal encouragers will let my client know that I am listening to them.

Skill Development

One skill I want to improve on is utilizing silence without feeling uncomfortable. During role-play sessions, I practiced using silence but I found myself breaking the silence before my client did because I felt awkward. I fear that if I utilize silence and my client senses that I am uncomfortable, it will make them uncomfortable. If my client feels uncomfortable, they will not want to open up to me. One major lesson I took away from a class discussion as well as reading Young's textbook is how silence can encourage...

Creating Contexts for Learning and Self-authorship Marcia B. Baxter Magolda, 1999 This book is intended to help college faculty create conditions in which students learn to construct knowledge in their disciplines and achieve self authorship A significant and often overlooked dimension mediating learning and self authorship centers on learners ways of knowing or their assumptions about the nature limits and certainty of knowledge A learner who assumes that all knowledge is certain expects to hear answers from an authority figure in contrast a learner who views knowledge as relative expects to explore multiple viewpoints By taking a constructive developmental approach the author demonstrates how students ability to construct knowledge is intertwined with the development of their assumptions about knowledge itself and their role in creating it She shows how the structure of constructive developmental teaching hinges on three principles validating students ability to know situating learning in students experience and defining learning as teachers and students mutually constructing meaning The book also takes abstract pedagogical principles and translates them into practical approaches Reflective Practice for Coaches Iain McCormick,2023-02-22 This practical evidence based guide to running Reflective Practice professional development programmes provides a dynamic and engaging resource for a wide range of coaches Reflective Practice is a proven learning and development approach that involves consciously and deliberately thinking about experiences to develop insights and apply these within coaching practice McCormick argues that it is vital that coaches regularly reflect on their work to develop and grow professionally and this book provides a definitive and rich source of material on how and what to reflect on Topics include how to reflect as an individual coach working in pairs and small groups applying reflective practice in a training context and how to run advanced group sessions for coaches The book features a wide range of practical workbook exercises to challenge the reader s current practice and extend their capability as well as an evidence based guide to enhancing skills in recently developed areas such as Unified Protocol Cognitive Behavioural Therapy Internet Supplemented Acceptance and Commitment Therapy and Using Schema Therapy with Mindfulness Techniques Written by a highly experienced executive coach this book is full of practical and effective ways to become more capable and proficient It is essential reading for any career life or executive coach who wishes to enhance their coaching capability through reflective practice as well as for coaching training organisations senior executive coaches offering sessions for other coaches and academic institutions offering coaching qualifications Sport Management Education Mike Rayner,Tom Webb,2022-01-27 This book examines a range of contemporary issues related to the global delivery of sport management education At a time of unprecedented change in Higher Education the book looks closely at how sport management education can and should deliver positive outcomes in sport business and management outside of the university The book brings together sport management academics from around the globe and examines how their practice in education has been shaped by the cultural religious and political context of the national regions in which they work It aims to identify core principles in sport management education and implementation and discusses the key aspects of sport management programmes from curriculum design and pedagogy to issues around unified accreditation and the needs of employers It also focuses in on what sport management education might look like in an increasingly digital post COVID world This is essential reading for all sport management educators and anybody working in sport related professions looking to understand global educational platforms and their implications for policy at local regional national and international level Cultural Awareness and Competency Development in Higher Education Leavitt, Lynda,Wisdom, Sherrie,Leavitt, Kelly,2017-02-08 As the world becomes more globalized student populations in university settings will continue to grow in diversity To ensure students develop the cultural competence to adapt to new environments universities and colleges must develop policies and
