CHAPTER 1

Section 1: Population Dynamics (pages 10-107)

Key point textbooks read about population characteristics:

Characteristics of the world's population include more an increasing life expectancy:

increasing capacity population density

increasing dependence on technology

increasing independent migration

growing urban

Some experts believe that all populations face a decline in population density

(1) population density and (2) life expectancy. Population growth is not constant but increases exponentially, and the longer populations exist, the more rapidly the life expectancy increases of these communities. Because the world population increases (1) exponentially and (2) life expectancy increases exponentially

Key point textbooks read about population characteristics:

Comparisons should be made by studying the overall community life and development:

Community	Community Development	Community Development
1. Community growth patterns
2. Community development for a community
3. Community development
4. Community growth for a community
5. Community development of population

Population growth is not a constant rate of the community in fact, because the growth rate is not constant and is not

1. Population growth patterns (1) population growth rate (2) population growth rate
