The last twenty years have seen an explosion in the development of information technology to the point that people spend a major portion of waking life in online spaces While there are enormous benefits associated with this technology there are also risks that can affect the most vulnerable in our society but also the most confident

Cybercrime and its victims explores the social construction of violence and victimisation in online spaces and brings together scholars from many areas of inquiry including criminology sociology and cultural media and gender studies The book is organised thematically into five parts Part one addresses some broad conceptual and theoretical issues Part two is concerned with issues relating to sexual violence abuse and exploitation as well as to sexual expression online Part three addresses issues related to race and culture Part four addresses concerns around cyberbullying and online suicide grouped together as social violence The final part argues that victims of cybercrime are in general neglected and not receiving the recognition and support they need and deserve It concludes that in the volatile and complex world of cyberspace continued awareness raising is essential for bringing attention to the plight of victims It also argues that there needs to be more support of all kinds for victims as well as an increase in the exposure and punishment of perpetrators

Drawing on a range of pressing contemporary issues such as online grooming sexting cyber hate cyber bullying and online radicalization this book examines how cyberspace makes us more vulnerable to crime and violence how it gives rise to new forms of surveillance and social control and how cybercrime can be prevented PC Mag, 1995-10-24
