The American Stationer ,1879 Encyclopedia of Cryptozoology Michael Newton, 2016-10-05

On every continent and in every nation animals unrecognized by modern science are reported on a daily basis People passionately pursue these creatures the name given to their field of study is cryptozoology Coined in the 1950s the term literally means the science of hidden animals When the International Society of Cryptozoology ISC was formed in 1982 the founders declared that the branch of science is also concerned with the possible existence of known animals in areas where they are not supposed to occur either now or in the past as well as the unknown persistence of presumed extinct animals to the present time or to the recent past what makes an animal of interest to cryptology is that it is unexpected This reference work presents a flesh and blood view of cryptozoology Here 2 744 entries are listed the majority of which each describe one specific creature or type of creature Other entries cover 742 places where unnamed cryptids are said to appear profiles of 77 groups and 112 individuals who have contributed to the field descriptions of objects and events important to the subject and essays on cryptotourism and hoaxes for example Appendices offer a timeline of zoological discoveries annotated lists of movies and television series with cryptozoological themes a list of crypto fiction titles and a list of Internet websites devoted to cryptozoology

Biological Control of Weeds in Australia M. H. Julien, R. E. McFadyen, Jim Cullen, 2012 Biological control of weeds has been practiced for over 100 years and Australia has been a leader in this weed management technique The classical example of control of prickly pears in Australia by the cactus moth Cactoblastis cactorum which was imported from the Americas helped to set the future for biocontrol of weeds in many countries Since then there have been many projects using Classical Biological Control to manage numerous weed species many of which have been successful Importantly there have been no serious negative non target impacts the technique when practiced as it is in Australia is safe and environmentally friendly Economic assessments have shown that biocontrol of weeds in Australia has provided exceedingly high benefit to cost ratios This book reviews biological control of weeds in Australia to 2011 covering over 90 weed species and a multitude of biological control agents and potential agents Each chapter has been written by practicing biological control of weeds researchers and provides details of the weed the history of its biological control exploration for agents potential agents studied and agents released and the outcomes of those releases Many weeds were successfully controlled some were not many projects are still underway some have just begun however all are reported in detail in this book Biological Control of Weeds in Australia will provide invaluable information for biological control researchers in Australia and elsewhere Agents used in Australia could be of immense value to other countries that suffer from the same weeds as Australia The studies reported here provide direction to future research and provide examples and knowledge for researchers and students

KEY FEATURES A unique collation of information for Australian weed research and management Contains all the information about biological control of weeds in Australia in one book Provides key references for further information Will become a well cited publication
